THE ELMWOOD STABLES.

HANDSOME STRUCTURE ERECTED AT NEWTON BY GEORGE W. BUSH WILL BE OPENED NEXT MONDAY.

On next Monday Mr. George W. Bush, the well known Newton stable-keeper, will open for public inspection the largest, handsomest and best appointed stable in the city. He extends a cordial invitation to his friends and the public, who will have an excellent opportunity to make a thorough examination of the structure. The new building equals in complete equipment any in the state.

It is situated on a private way off Elmwood street, and occupies about 6,000 square feet of land. It is constructed of brick, and the supports are of iron. The material used in the building is of the best quality, and every attention has been given to details.

Mr. Bush has spared nothing to make the building one of the best in the country for the boarding of horses. For this purpose it will be used exclusively. Mr. Bush retaining the old building for hacking and livery purposes.

The new structure is absolutely fireproof, every provision for this having been made when it was constructed. On the first floor is room for over 100 carriages.
There are no posts and the space is ample to drive a six-horse team in, turning it around without difficulty.

The flooring is of artificial stone. In addition to 31 windows, light is furnished by 20 incandescent lamps. The entrance from the street is through a door 22 feet wide. The distance between the first and second floors is 20 feet. In the southwest corner of the first floor is a room for washing carriages. This is lighted by six windows, and fitted with appliances of the latest pattern for use in washing carriages.
The flooring is also of artificial stone, and traps connecting with the sewer main have been built.

The office is on the southeast corner of the first floor. Back of this is a run leading to the second floor, where the stalls are situated. The run is circular in shape, and covered with rubber belting. This style of run is the best for the horses, and is certainly an improvement over former designs. A stairway has been built in addition.

On the second floor are 57 single and 5 box stalls. They are most substantially constructed and so fitted that every comfort may be given to the horses. This stalls, like the other interior portions of the building, are finished in hard pine, with the exception of the bottom, which is built of maple. There is no end of light from half a hundred windows, and as many incandescent lamps. The arrangement of the stalls is so that the horses are given the best of space for the animals, without danger of interference.

There are four separate watering troughs, in addition to the sinks. One of the most agreeable features, which will be appreciated by all owners of horses, is an outdoor. Through this will be run all stalls, that all foreign matter may be separated.

On the southeast corner of this floor is a harness room, capable of containing 180 harnesses. This, too, is well lighted and equipped with a large sink.

The sanitary arrangements throughout the building may be said to be perfect in every detail. Fully realizing the importance of a well aired, well lighted and perfectly ventilated stable, Mr. Bush has given his personal attention to the work in this direction. That he has fully succeeded will be readily seen by a visit to the new building. Special mention should be made of the construction of the stalls. The sides are built of wood five feet above which has been constructed an iron guard two feet high. The bottom of the stalls are of iron covered with wood. Each stall has been plumbed with sewer connections, and like other parts of the building every provision for sanitary and proper drainage has been made.

A large monitor leading from the second floor to a point 10 feet above the roof is the medium for ventilation, and is the best form of a fanable.

A large depository for manure has been built at the rear of the old building, entirely separated from the new structure.
There is no cellar under the building, the upper floor containing all necessary storage room.

On the third floor are the bins for hay and feed. The latter is placed in large bins and transported to the lower floor through large shutters. There is also room on this floor for the storage of harnesses.
Throughout the building are call bells and speaking tubes.

The drainage of the roof is provided for by large spouts connected with a dry well in the yard below. There are many other agreeable features which will be revealed on closer inspection.

The iron work is furnished by the Boston Bridge Co. The woodwork by L. W.
Crow, and the stalls constructed by the Lynn Stail Co., and the masonry by W. E.
Scribner.

Mr. George W. Bush, the owner of the stable, has conducted business in Newton for the past 28 years. For 25 years his place of business has occupied this position on Elmwood street. He is well known throughout the city, and has a large and desirable patronage. His residence is on Elmwood street, near the stable, and he is always able to give personal attention to business.

The Lancaster Block Sold.

Mr. Howard B. Coffin has sold the Lancaster block on Centre street, opposite the railroad station, to Lewis E. Coffin. This is the most important sale of real estate in Newton for some time. The property consists of a two story brick block, containing four stores, with tenements above, and is assessed for $44,100. The sale was on private terms but the price is said to have been considerably above the assessed value. One of the stores has for years been occupied by the postoffice. The new owner will at once proceed to put the block in thorough repair. Its location makes it the most valuable piece of business property in the city.

TECH VS AMHERST.

DUAL TRACK MEET TO BE HELD NEXT SATURDAY AT THE RIVERSIDE RECREATION GROUNDS—M. L. T. HOPES.

The Technology-Amherst dual track meet, to be held tomorrow afternoon on the Riverside recreation grounds, should prove interesting to lovers of athletics.

The list of events at present agreed to consist of 100-yard and 220-yard dashes, 440-yard and 880-yard runs, one and two-mile runs, 120-yard high and 220-yard low hurdles, high and broad jumps, pole vault, hammer throw, discus throw and shot put. In addition several team races between local school teams will be run. Another event which Technology proposed, but which Amherst has not yet agreed to, was the two-mile bicycle race.

Technology feels particularly strong in this event, and will make a hard fight to place it on the schedule. Murray, a Tech freshman, would be practically a sure winner.

Technology bases her hopes on the field events, the quarter and half-mile runs and the low hurdles.

Amherst is strong in the dashes, high hurdles and mile run.

Amherst has two shining lights in Furbish, a mile runner, and Mossman, who has won places at Worcester. In the hurdles for the past three years she is credited with having a sprinter, who can do the hundred in 10 1-8s.

Technology will probably enter in the hundred, Furbish 98, Hubbard 99, and Ingalls 00. No one of these is better than 10 3-8s. In the 220-yard, Hall 00, Grant 00, and Sawyer 99, only fair runners. In the quarter-mile, Priest 00, Garrett 01, and Dutton 00; the first two are running well. In the half-mile, Garrett 00, Clark 99, third man undecided. Bodwell 98, Sears 00, and Emery 00 will run the mile, and Pray 99, Darden 01, and Gray 00 will enter the two-mile event. All are fair runners, but they are not stars. Gurney 99, Copp 99, and Wentworth 00, the track captain, will run the high hurdles; Wentworth is the best man; Burch 99, Dutton 00, and Wentworth 00, are Tech's low hurdles; Burch is a fast man.

Technology expects to win all the places in the high jump. Putnam 98, the old Harvard jumper, and Baxter, the freshman find, ought to do better than 5 ft. 10 in. and Butcher 98, are not particularly strong. In the shot-put, Kimball and Schmidt, all 99 men, should take two of the three places. Field 88, Schmidt 99, Walton 99, and Brown 00, will throw the hammer. In the discus throwers, Copp 99, Brown 00, and Hermann 99, are of no exceptional ability. The broad jumpers, House 98, Flemings 01, and Butcher 98, are not particularly strong. Technology has four fairly good men in the pole vault, Payne 01, Chapin 98, Baxter 01, and Putnam 98. The first named is probably good enough to win a place.

A special train will leave the grounds, will leave the Kneeland street station of the Boston & Albany at 1:45, returning at 5:40.

MANY REQUISITE QUALITIES.

ADMIRAL LEWIS A. KIMBERLEY ANSWERS THE QUERY, "WHAT KIND OF MAN MAKES THE BEST SOLDIER?"—INTERESTING AND VALUABLE POINTS.

In the Boston Globe's symposium last Sunday, Admiral Lewis A. Kimberley of West Newton replied to the question, "What Kind of Man Makes the Best Soldier?" with the following article:

"The qualities that make a good citizen make a good soldier or sailor. Moral and physical health are essential to military and naval usefulness. I have observed that the more good sense and general good health a man enjoys the more promptly and effectively he will act in times of emergency.

"The best age for a soldier is between 20 and 35. He has greater energy and more disposition to exert himself to the utmost capacity to earn the approval of others. He can endure more without going to pieces and he is more plastic and more easy of adjustment to a diversity of uses.

"Some people think a stupid man makes a good soldier, but I never have believed it, although it may have been true once when war was nothing more than a wild collision of brute forces. Today the art of war is complicated and requires intelligence in every part of the great fighting machine that an army or a navy has become.

"The size of a man is not very important in determining his qualification for military duty. It is well to have a strong sturdy frame, but great height does not add to a man's fitness for actual service, although it increases his picture-giveness on parade. On the other hand the soldier ought not to be undersized. Generally speaking, the more nearly he approaches the normal in height and weight the more desirable he is as a soldier.

"As for race, I think it has been well established that the Anglo-Saxon is the ideal fighter. By Anglo-Saxon I mean such a mixture of races as will include the Irish, the Scotch, the English and the American. By no means leave out the Irish and the Scotch. Mixed with the Yankee blood, he proved in the late civil war one of the most formidable warriors the world ever has seen. I believe that the Scotch-American and the Irish-American in the late war gave us a fighting combination that could beat at least twice its own number in Latin races.

"The qualities, above all others, that distinguish this combination in war are loyalty, steady determination and endurance, and the courage that will do anything and go anywhere under orders. A man may be very brave on occasions, but it is the rare man that is always ready.

"Whether the man fit from the city or the man from the country is the better soldier, is a question that I am willing to leave to somebody else to decide. I think our civil war, however, proved that surprisingly admirable fighting was done by both, with the record for endurance leaning to the side of the man from the city.

THE PLAYERS.

ADD ANOTHER SUCCESS TO THEIR LONG LIST OF BRILLIANT PERFORMANCES.

The Players had crowded houses, as usual, on Monday and Tuesday evenings, at Temple Hall, Newtonville, and all agreed that it was one of the most enjoyable performances the Players have given. "For One Night Only" is full of amusing situations, and the audience were kept in constant laughter, by the very skillful manner in which the points were brought out. The music by the Bohemian Orchestra Club of Cambridge added greatly to the pleasure of the evening. Mr. Geo. Royal Pulsifer was acting manager, Mr. Frederic H. Keyes, stage manager, and Mr. Maurice H. Biscoe assistant.

A HOSPITAL SHIP.

LUCY JACKSON CHAPTER, D. A. R., SHOWS THE PATRIOTISM OF THE MEMBERS.

A meeting of the Lucy Jackson Chapter, D. A. R. of Newton, was held Thursday, Apr. 28, at Mrs. Whidden's, Winthrop street, West Newton, at 3 p. m. Miss Allen, the regent, presided, and the ladies of the chapter had the pleasure of listening to two very delightful papers read by Miss Ticknor, regent of the Abigail Adams Chapter. One gave an account of Miss Ticknor's revolutionary ancestors, the other was on Benedict Arnold—Patriot and Traitor. Selections of violin and vocal music were given by Miss Kimberley and Miss Morton. A social hour followed, which was much enjoyed by the members present. The meeting closed with the singing of America.

Before the papers were read, the following resolution was unanimously and enthusiastically carried, with instruction to the corresponding secretary to forward the same to the President-General, Mrs. Manning:

Resolved—"That the Lucy Jackson Chapter pledge five hundred dollars toward the gift of a hospital ship to the U. S. government, if other chapters of the D. A. R. and other women's patriotic organizations will co-operate."

The following remarks introductory to the offering of this resolution were made by one of the members:

"The D. A. R. as an association has done much to foster patriotic sentiment throughout the country, but as yet it has not been called upon for no more active, practical work than the placing of historical tablets, preserving ancient landmarks, marking graves of revolutionary soldiers, etc. Now that war is upon us, the machinery of our organization is so perfect that we are in excellent condition to do noble work for our country. We cannot all be nurses; only women trained for the work could be of service. Others would do more harm than good. There is no woman in this broad land, however, who cannot feel for the sick and wounded soldier, or who would not wish to mitigate his sufferings. To contribute money for that end requires no technical training, and one united effort is always of greater force than many smaller efforts in scattered directions.

We number in all, between twenty-three and twenty-four thousand women. What a grand work it would be for us to unite our hearts and purses and present the government with a hospital ship for the use of our brave defenders! The sum required, as we learn from official sources at Washington, is a large one, from $300,000 to $500,000. Perhaps this is a greater amount than one organization can raise. But if this be so, why not offer the privilege to other women's patriotic associations throughout the country of joining with us, and give the government and army the wonderfully practical support which such a united effort would effect? True, the government can tax the country and obtain all the ships needed, but the moral effect of such a free gift from so large a number of the women of America can hardly be over-estimated.

We are a very small chapter, only seventy-eight members. Can we not pledge such a sum in proportion to our numbers, as would be an inspiration to other chapters to go and do likewise and even better? Five hundred dollars would be a generous gift from our chapter. If we can today promise that amount, and inform our chiefs at Washington of what we have done and recommend to others, we shall have done our part, and are not responsible for results. But if we do not take the first step, the second cannot follow. We must also bear in mind that our officers at Washington may not think well of the plan, and that the war may be over before such a ship is needed. But no harm can come of a noble purpose, and strong in that belief the resolution is recommended to you today.

One evening, confidentially, she showed some Ripans Tablets and told how she used to suffer from indigestion, but, having read about people who had been benefited by Ripans Tablets, she decided to make a trial of them herself and the effect had been "wonderful as you can see, Fred," said she. She no longer has heart-burn or distress of the stomach after eating nor suffers anymore from nausea, and more than that she has gained seven pounds in weight. The man who thus heard

THE HABITATION TAX.

The Springfield Republican has been pulling the report of our legislative committee to pieces, and it finds that its objections to the habitation tax, as proposed by the taxation committee, are nonsensical. The committee reported against this tax for these reasons:

It is clearly a sumptuary law; it would fall especially upon the most deserving class in the community; it would discourage marriage; it would tend to discourage residence in Massachusetts; and above all, would place an excessive burden upon the home, the creation and maintenance of which are of the highest importance to the well-being of the community.

As regard to its being a sumptuary law, this objection sounds well, but evidently the committee did not know what it meant. A sumptuary law is one which is intended to restrict the individual in his expenditures for food, drink or the like. But the habitation tax was not designed to restrict expenditures, any more than the tax on real estate.

The committee claim next that the tax would fall on "the most deserving class in the community," that is, the class having the largest incomes, a rather peculiar assertion, and the committee probably did not mean to have it inferred that a man was deserving in proportion to the size of his income?

Third, the committee claim that the tax "would discourage marriage." The tax only applies to rentals over $400, and it can safely be asserted that at least half the houses in the state rent for that sum or under. But people occupying these do not come under "the more deserving class" and we have to consider the case of those renting houses over $400. The young man with an income of $2500 or so wants to get married, and he should not spend more than a fifth of his income for rent, or say $500. That would render him liable to a tax of $10 a year, and the poor thing would be so discouraged that he would inform the girl of his choice that he could not afford it, and become a confirmed bachelor. Of course "more deserving" men with larger incomes, say $5000 or over, might rent houses costing $1000 a year, and that would "discourage" them to the amount of $60 a year. These "more deserving" fellows have evidently very little souls and it is fortunate that we have a legislative committee so tender of the people with large incomes.

Possibly there may be valid objections to the habitation tax, but if so the committee has been remarkably successful in avoiding them. As they are all intelligent men, one is forced to guess at the real reasons for their report against this tax, which would be one step towards taxing those who are best able to pay, something which our lawmakers seem strangely enough to shrink from.

THE highway department is putting Washington street, between the West Newton bridge and the boulevard, in fine shape, and this improvement will interest all in the city, as this section of the street has been in bad shape for a long time, although it seems as much travel as any thoroughfare in the city. We are glad to see the main thoroughfares receiving attention, as it is upon their condition that the reputation of Newton's streets depend. Beacon street, from the Boston line to Newton Centre, is another section that is receiving much needed repairs, and as we have no boulevards to build this year, our main streets ought to be in fine order before the season is very far advanced.

SEVERAL churches in the suburbs have made arrangements for the accommodation of bicyclists at their services, and have found that a large number are glad to enjoy the benefits. The Church of the Good Shepherd in Waban has joined in the movement, and has made special provision for the care of wheels during morning service, and extends a cordial invitation to all riders to attend these services. The church is pleasantly located on Beacon street, a pleasant morning run from Boston or any of the Newton villages, the service is at 10.30, and the church is more attractive from being located in a beautiful country district. This policy has proved very successful in reaching many who otherwise would not attend church, in other places, notably in Winchester, where a large number of wheelmen attend service every pleasant Sunday.

HON. JAMES F. C. HYDE is the second of the ex-mayors of Newton to pass away. He will be greatly missed in the city, as he had until very recently taken an active part in all that concerned Newton, and his influence was always used to forward what he thought would benefit the city. He was a gentleman of the old school, and few men have commanded more respect, or have had greater influence upon their surroundings. In private life, few had warmer or more loyal friends, and he was a very genial and entertaining companion. Although one of the busiest of men, he yet found time for the cultivation of a hobby, which he always said was necessary to every man's happiness, and his was gardening, in which he took great interest, and his success with early vegetables was the despair of rival amateurs. He carried into this form of relaxation the same energy and interest that he displayed in his business, which perhaps explained his success. By his death the city loses one of its most forceful personalities, but his name will always occupy a large space in the history of his native city.

The caucuses on Tuesday night were very slimly attended, as is usual before an extra election. Some of the wards did not have enough present for the officers of the meeting. The candidates mentioned are Mr. J. T. Langford, Mr. F. H. Tucker and Mr. Reuben Forknall. Mr. Langford is not a candidate and is in favor of Mr. Tucker, who is the president of the Young Men's Christian Association, and a man of high ability and character. The contest in the convention will be between him and Mr. Forknall, who has served in the city government before, and is strongly endorsed by his section of the ward.

THE house has decided to reconsider its refusal to admit an inheritance tax bill, and perhaps something may be done in this matter. The principle of taxing inheritances has been adopted in many other states, and it is a tax that falls on those best able to pay it, which somehow seems to be an unpopular thing with many of our political leaders.

It is rumored that the proposed increase in the pay of the city laborers would cost the city in the neighborhood of $30,000 a year over the rate of wages paid at present. The committee of the board of aldermen is wrestling with the question, but so far they have only been able to report progress.

ON BEACON HILL.

BUT LITTLE BUSINESS BEFORE THE LEGISLATURE—GREAT STATE EXPENDITURES UNDER CONSIDERATION—BEAUTIFYING THE RIVER BANKS—NEWTON AND BOSTON'S BOUNDARY LINE.

(Special Legislative Correspondence.)

Beacon Hill, May 4.

We have a very peculiar legislature this year. In any recent year such a thing as not having business enough to occupy the attention of the house except in the afternoon, would have caused a sensation at this time of the year, and what would have been more surprising still, would have been the meeting of the lower branch at one o'clock in the afternoon and its adjournment at three, because it had finished its calendar and had nothing else to do. This very thing happened Monday afternoon. I asked Speaker Bates the same day when he proposed to begin morning sessions, and he said not until there was something to do in the morning. Two years ago, some time during the month of May, Speaker Meyer managed after a morning session to break through the calendar by dint of assigning and tabling a good many of the numbers. It was hailed as a remarkable feat, and yet here we have Speaker Bates finishing the calendar nearly every day.

I grieve to say it, but there is some evidence that the reason for this unusual state of things lies partly in the fact that the committee on ways and means of the house, on which Representative Hayward sits faithfully every day, has still almost a larger calendar than the house itself. The committee on ways and means is a standing committee, which has no limit of time for making reports, as it must necessarily re-hear every matter which concerns the expenditure of money, whether it comes from a joint committee or from the senate. It has the right to sit during the sessions of the house, but of course with conditions; they are, its members prefer to sit in the morning and then be in the house in the afternoon and take care of the matters which they report. The bills now pending in the committee involve an expenditure by the Commonwealth of $10,000,000, and of course they are not going to report them until the necessity of such an enormous expenditure is made very plain indeed. It need hardly be said that the constant association of the members of this committee with one another leads in time to their working as a unit, and the result is that the committee is very effective in its work upon the floor. When its reports on measures from other committees is over, appropriation bills to cover the work of the house have to be submitted; in fact, such bills are going in all the time. I do not think I mistake in saying that the reason for this strange condition of the house calendar is due partly, if not entirely, to this committee, though I would not have it understood that I blame the committee, for if it does its work carefully, it will save mistakes and foolish appropriations in the house.

After careful consideration the committee voted a few days ago to report favorably the bill to provide for the expenditure of $1,000,000 in beautifying the river banks in the metropolitan district, the work to be done under the direction of the metropolitan park commissioners. This bill was very earnestly favored in the hearing which the committee gave, by Representative Pickard, as well as by the officials of the various municipalities in the district.

The bill to straighten the boundary line between Boston and Newton has passed the senate without debate, being engrossed on Monday. The printed report of the committee on taxation, giving the reasons why it decided against the various propositions of the taxation commission, reached the hands of the members on Friday. I think it will have to be conceded that Senator Harwood has written a very remarkable justification of its action for the committee. He points out that so much time was necessarily given to the hearings on the reports and bills based upon it, that the committee did not feel it proper to attempt to originate legislation. The next thing to be done should be the introduction in the coming year of bills for new legislation to correct any imperfections in the present system, and then to re-elect Senator Harwood and his associates to work the problem out. With this year's experience and fund of information as a basis, this ought to be followed by something satisfactory. The fourteen bills on which the committee reported were in the house calendar assigned for yesterday. After a good deal of discussion, which included a particularly fine speech by Mr. Washburn of Worcester, the bills were all rejected excepting one in relation to the taxation of legacies and successions, which went over for further discussion. The result will very greatly lessen the length of the session.

Mr. Pickard and his associates are naturally elated over the way the Cambridge hosts were routed on the West Boston bridge bill. It was rather significant that when Cambridge was pleading for a line of elevated cars last year and made arrangements for the submission of a bridge bill this year, nothing was said about having Middlesex towns help pay the bills. The injustice of it was so apparent that the efforts of the Cambridgeans were in vain.

The committee on ways and means reported adversely today on the F. P. Bennett bill for a ridge over the Saugus river between the Point of Pines and Lynn. Mr. Hayward dissented from the report believing that Lynn ought to have a bridge connecting her with Revere beach, though he does not believe in the scheme for a highway along the North shore.

LINCOLN WATER

Kidney Troubles, Diabetes and Severe Constipation Cured.

Feb. 10, 1898.
The Lincoln Spring Co., Saratoga, N. Y.

Gentlemen—For the benefit of those afflicted as I was I wish to add my testimony to the efficacy of the Saratoga Lincoln Spring Water.

For four years I was afflicted with Kidney troubles, diabetes and severe constipation. This condition affected my nerves, gave me great distress in my head, and I was unable to sleep. I tried various remedies, and employed many skillful physicians, but they failed to relieve me.

About two months ago friends induced me to try the Saratoga Lincoln Spring Water. I used it freely, drinking nothing else and leaving off all other medicine. After a few days' use of the water I was relieved of insomnia and the distress in my head was gone. The laxative effect of the water cured my constipation, and the sugar in my urine gradually diminished in quantity, until today I am free from my old troubles, and life seems brighter. All praise to the Lincoln Spring Water.

JOHN J. SEAMEN,
52 Walker St., New York City.

—A supper and soiree was held at the M. E. church, Wednesday evening, under the direction of the young ladies of the society. Supper was served at six, followed by a pleasing platform entertainment. The young ladies are to be congratulated over the success of their undertaking, as it was voted one of the pleasantest of the season.

—A good sized audience assembled at the Methodist church on Sunday evening last to listen to an interesting address by Miss Harriet J. Cooke of Boston, on city missionary work at the North End. Ellwood Nash, formerly pastor of the Universalist church at Newtonville, now president of the Lombard University, Galesburg, Ill., will be interested in knowing of the death at Galesburg on the 24th ult. of Mrs. Nash's mother, Mrs. Sawtelle, well known to the Newtonville people. Mrs. Nash accompanied the remains to Maine for interment passing through Boston on Wednesday. Mrs. Sawtelle was 91 years old and had been very strong until within the past year during which she had been a great sufferer.

—The annual meeting of the Newtonville Guild held the Methodist church parlors on Tuesday at 3 p. m. Mr. H. H. Carter presiding. The reports of the various committees were read by the chairman of the different branches of work, and a report of the State Federation meeting at Lowell, April 13. Discussion, earnest and animated, as to special lines of charitable work for the coming year followed, and after election of officers a pleasant half hour was spent in the tea room where refreshments were served. The following officers were unanimously elected: President, Mrs. H. H. Carter; vice-presidents, Mrs. G. T. Hill, Mrs. G. B. Macomber, Mrs. C. F. West, Mrs. C. H. Abbott, Mrs. G. L. Keyes, Mrs. C. F. Slocum, Mrs. W. C. Boyden, Mrs. J. F. Bancher; recording secretary, Miss J. F. Martin; corresponding secretary, Miss H. A. Robinson; treasurer, Mrs. G. P. Cooke; auditor, Miss M. W. Hackett; directors, (whose term expires 1902) Mrs. S. F. Brewer, Miss M. C. Worcester; chairman musical committee, Mrs. P. W. Carter. As Mrs. W. L. Chalmers was unable to serve as the secretary the office is left vacant for the present.

—Postmaster Turner gave up his position on May 1st, after having served for 12 years and two months, and he is succeeded as superintendent of the Newtonville station by Miss M. E. Bachelder, who served in the office for the past 11 years. Mr. Turner has been a very popular official and every patron of the office will regret his resignation. He has worked unceasingly to make the office a model one, and no complaints were ever heard from any cause connected with his office. But the change from a regular postoffice to a postal station, while it cut down the salary by more than one half, did not lessen the labor, but rather increased them, with the inauguration of free delivery, and Mr. Turner decided that it was not worth his while to work so hard, and keep such long hours, for the salary paid. He therefore, much to the regret of Postmaster Ellis, handed in his resignation, and after helping his successor to get well started he has become again a free man. With Mr. Williams, he bought out the real estate business of the late G. H. Loomis, and he now can be found at the office on Bowers street almost any time during the day. Real estate business is not so exacting as working for Uncle Sam, and it pays him better than serving in a postal station. His friends are congratulating him on the change, and hope when he gets used to being in business again he will enjoy the sensation of not being tied up by long and rigid hours. Meanwhile his friends will find him at the office, and those in want of anything in the real estate line will have a cordial welcome.

Lasell Notes.

One of the pleasantest features of the evening chapel hour lately has been the occasional rendering of a short program of vocal music and recitations by the pupils of Professor Davis' and Mrs. Martin respectively. These little half-hour entertainments are enthusiastically received by the school, for whose benefit they are given, and they tend directly to put the participants at their ease, as well as to show what good work is doing in these departments. Another good thing is Dr. Gallagher's custom of giving brief reviews and explanations of news of the day relative, chiefly, to the war, and the discussion of various questions connected with it. The results are apparent in the more intelligent comprehension by the pupils of these matters.

Ladies' Shoes have taken a great drop in price. Recently several firms are selling the ordinary shoe for $3.50. E. W. Burt & Co., 43 West St., Boston, are turning out the "Knickerbocker Shoe" at this price and in quantities which keep their factory running night and day.

A SMILE IN THE MORNING.

There are smiles through the day, and mild bright evening scenes, Gleaming best over jewels and gold,
And as with flowers round they have charms of their own,
But their witcheries my heart cannot hold.
For I know they are false as the hearts which they hide,
And I turn from their witcheries with scorning smile—
While I think of a smile—of a bright, sunny smile—
Of a smile that I see in the morning.

There are smiles which we change as the small coin of life,
That with one it were vain to compare.
They are plenty and pleasant as far as they go,
But the smile in the morning is rare.
There's a dear, tender face with a heart speaking glance
That has need of no other adorning
Than the eloquent smile—than the beautiful smile—
Than the smile that I see in the morning.

Such a soul reaching smile, filled with innocent truth,
Must be caught from the cherubs above!
Not the riches of usury ever could buy
Such a smile from the lips that I love!
If at times in some maze I am tempted to stray
Then I seem to hear softly a warning:
"Oh, forget not the faithful—the happy at home!
Do not cloud the bright smile of the morning."
—Grace H. Horn in New York Ledger.

MALVINA FIXED IT.

She Wanted Her Alcohol Full Strength and Got It.

"Speakin' of b'lin things," remarked Deacon Puffer to the throng in the village store, "reminds me of my wife. Some time ago she sez to me, sez she, 'Josiah, of 'er exertion won't be to much for ye, I'd be obliged of ye would fetch me 'bout a pint of alcohol. An, Josiah,' sez she, 'I want it strong.'"

"What she wanted it fur?" pears I've forgotten now, but when I fetched it to him she smelt of it several times, an sez she: 'It du beet the world, Josiah, how these pesky critters du 'dulterate things now-days. Why,' sez she, 'if this hain't more'n half water then my Christian name hain't Malvina.' Well, gentlemen," said the deacon, uncrossing his legs and then crossing them again, "Malvina bein Mrs. Puffer's Christian name, as ye all be knowin', it warn't fur me to dispute, an I vowed that th' best thing fur to be done was fur me to take th' stuff back an suggest that what was wanted was pure stuff, or none 'tall. 'An then he 'em send worse stuff than afore," remarked Malvina. 'No, Josiah,' sez she, 'them critters be past redeemin. Leave it to me, Josiah.'"

"I left it to Malvina, gentlemen," explained the deacon after helping himself to a bit of cheese and a cracker. "An out I goes to do my chores. I 'sposed I was at home fur five or six minutes when all of a sudden I heard th' durnest explosion an th' tallest yellin from th' kitchen, where I left Malvina, that ye ever heard tell of. I runs in there, an what ye 'sposed I find?"

"Durn my buttons," chuckled the deacon, before any one could reply, "ef I didn't discover Malvina flat of her back by th' stove, which was busted all to thunder, with her eyes all gone, an she concluded that to do that she'd better bile it down. She put it in a b'iler, slapped it on th' stove, an then goes 'bout her work. Th' stove was putty hot, an afore Malvina had done more'n to or three things, an hed 'ers' started to look to see how th' b'lin process was a-comin on, th' durn thing blew up. Malvina never sed much 'bout it, more'n to tell me how it happened, an ef she hed alcohol in th' house sence I hain't heard of it."—Washington Star.

Dull Boys.

Dull boys often become clever and successful men, but this is simply on account of the fact that dull boys are only slow boys, and it takes more time for their brains to grow than the others. It is steady work, ceaseless endeavor, that tells. Then, again, we forget that a bright boy may be handicapped by other qualities. He may not have the physical strength or energy of the other, while the dull boy is carried forward by never failing energy and strength, for it is often his dullness at school that makes the dull boy's subsequent success so conspicuous. How many dull boys have become still duller men, and how many bright boys still brighter men! Like the old proverb about ministers' sons, one bright boy that turns out is made to stand for the whole class, and one dull boy that turns out well glorifies his whole class. Notwithstanding all our inventions, all our progress, the old Scripture doctrine still holds good—that men reap what they sow and cannot gather grapes of thistles nor figs of thorns. It can be set down, therefore, as an established rule that bright boys generally do turn out to be bright men and dull boys generally do turn out to be dull men. This, you see, gives the latter a chance, which can be fortified by declaring that good boys always turn out good men and generally successful men.—New York Ledger.

Cricket in Saxon.

A Sydney newspaper man who has been visiting Samoa describes a cricket match he saw in Apia. The match was being played in aid of the church funds. It had been in progress for about three months. There were 30 or 40 on each side. Most of the inhabitants of the village being engaged in it, there was, of course, no chance of gate money, so each player put in a shilling before taking the bat and when bowled out could go in again on payment of another shilling.

The Architecture of the Dachshund.

"I understand about the dachshund's legs," said Mr. Goslington, "that the greyhound has the most of them, but why its body should be built on the tubular principle is still a mystery to me."—New York Sun.

FEW WOMEN IN PRISON

Does That Prove That They Are Better Than Men?

I have been studying prison statistics and I find the average proportion is 20 women to 1,000 men. In the case of the Columbus (O.) penitentiary there are only 28 women to nearly 2,000. At the Western penitentiary in this state there are 19 women to every 1,000 men. Talking with the courteous warden of this latter institution a few days since, I asked him for his theory and got it with readiness. It was with a mind made up that he answered, "It is largely owing to the leniency of the court that more women are not convicted."

"But," said I, "people must be arraigned before they can be convicted, and there are proportionally so few women brought to trial. Either they do not violate the law or they are more clever in covering up their tricks and this with a cleverness that amounts to talents, and even if this last be true does there not still remain something to be said for them from a worldly point of view? The Spartans taught their youth the sin was not in stealing, but in being found out, you know." And the warden agreed that the Spartans were not all dead yet, or at least that their teachings had lived after them, but would concede nothing to women on the ground of morality.

But let us see about the inquiry of women. In the first place, there are more women than men in the world. Therefore if women are more immoral than men ought they not to commit at least an equal number of crimes?

But they have not equal opportunity. They are not in the world as men are, therefore are not so beset by temptations. Is the reply. But we may deny this since there are now over 500 occupations for women and all crowded until there is scarcely any room, even at the top, whereas in 1850 there were but 40 employments in which women earned a living.

They are now by the hundreds working shoulder to shoulder with men in all the professions and a majority of the trades. And are they not subjected to the same temptations? It is now quite the exception to find a man on the cashier's stool in stores and restaurants, etc., and could there be a better card to woman's honesty, and yet it has been said women are only given this place and like places of responsibility because they can be hired for less money. So more the temptation to steal then. If women are so prone to go to such lengths to gratify their love for dress, as has been asserted, would they not, unless morally better, be more likely to steal than men who are paid a living salary and have less provocation?

But who ever heard of a woman running away with funds entrusted to her? There is no such curiosity at the Western penitentiary at least, though, to tell the truth, there is a greater one—that of a horse thief! The mention of this freak female suggests one more "manly pursuit" as free to women as to men. Why do not more women steal horses? They admire them, and surely a stolen horse is worth as much owned or sold to a woman who would steal as to a man?

And are not women as clever with the pen? Then why not Jane the penman as well as Jim? Yet how seldom we hear of women forging!

Prison reports the country over for 1891-2 show an alarming increase in the population of such institutions, but such statistics do not show a proportionate increase in crime among women. One of the propelling forces leading to criminality upon which the authorities are quite agreed is "the desire to live beyond legitimate means," and ever since women began wearing "store clothes" they have been accused of this very thing. Why, then, do they not steal to gratify this desire as their brothers do?—Meg in Philadelphia Times.

Excellent Work by Women in Schools.

All women should be interested in the schools, as patriotic citizens if not as tax payers, and mothers should deem it a duty to do all in their power to obtain the best conditions possible in the schools where their children must spend five hours a day five days in the week for eight months in the year, during the important formative period of their lives. If it be true that men are sometimes willing to sacrifice the schools for political ends, it is not believed that women, the mothers of the race, will ever so far forget their duty to the most precious product of our land the children.

If women would visit the schools and attend the school meetings to aid in electing the best men and women as school officials, it would doubtless improve the character of the meetings and increase the interest in educational work. In the republic, the State has no more important duty than the education of its citizens—sovereigns and, if women are indeed the "God ordained instructors of youth," they should have a large share in the management of our schools.

If women will use their ballots to make better schools they will increase their own self-respect and win that of others. By securing the best education for the boys and girls of to-day they will secure better citizens for the future and help to hasten the day when the State shall have added to the wisdom of its sons, that of its daughters.

I am glad to add my personal testimony to the excellent work that women are now doing as State superintendents, teachers, school commissioners, members of boards of education, and in many other lines of educational work. To good executive ability, they add an earnestness of purpose, and conscientious devotion to duty which may well be emulated by their brothers. My sincere desire to encourage the advancement of women to all positions to which their inclination and ability may direct.—Supt. of Public Instruction Skinner, of New York State, in his annual report.

Platinum Wire Worth as Much as Gold.

A package of wire which weighed 25 pounds and resembled ordinary fine polished steel wire, was entered at the appraiser's department of the custom house several days ago and valued at $5,000. This is almost as much as the same weight of gold would be valued, and the wire attracted a good deal of attention. It was platinum wire, and for that reason worth its weight in gold.—New York Sun.

PICKED UP.

Clerk Whittlesey of the police court sometimes poses as a humorist with considerable success. This is of course not in his official capacity, but only when he lays aside that air of awe-inspiring dignity with which delinquents are sentenced to the state's summer farm at Bridgewater for a season of turnip hoeing. It was at the police court, Judge Kenney said, that the mayor and police committee had for some time been tickling the vanity of the "coppers" with allusions to their splendid appearance in the preceding parade. Mr. Whittlesey was then called on, and prefaced his remarks with the electrifying statement that while he realized the members of Newton's finest were a fine, imposing body of men, he was sure that as a "fine looking" man, Judge Kenney could not count that lot. Then every one went on smoking just as if nothing had happened.

How Commodore Dewey's ears must tingle. Who says we are not a nation of happy worshippers? If we have none at hand we make one, and when we have a genuine one such as Com. Dewey, we go simply crazy. If the distinction mentioned in the New York Times that he would be received like a Yale half back after a Harvard game. What more can he say?

How's this, the board of aldermen knowingly violating the city charter in order to shield itself from the public. It was Monday night and the subject of liquor was before the board. An executive session was just the thing to prevent the public from placing the responsibility of official acts and so this star chamber policy was resorted to. The charter states that the board may, in its discretion, hold any session for executive business, that is, the consideration of appointments or removals. Members of the board were well aware of this, but decided to violate the charter. The present board may well take warning, and in addition would do well to heighten the force by voting to go into executive session, and then allowing the Mayor's private secretary to remain in the chamber.

What a farce those Republican caucuses Tuesday evening turned out. In Ward One there was an apology for a primary caucus, but in the rest of the city at best, the caucus consisted of a chairman, a secretary and a man brought in from outside to make the nominations. In Ward Five there was only the chairman and he neither voted nor counted. In Ward Six the man from outside was dispensed with and the chairman and secretary did the nominating and voting. In Ward Four a diligent search through the highways and byways brought out the realists, but the same story might be told of the other wards. The voters of Newton are reminded that the caucuses were held to elect delegates to nominate a candidate for alderman at large in the succeeding June. S. Potter. We have frequently heard that the primary was more important than the election itself.

Now that the statutes require all junk dealers to carry a book that a record of the articles they purchase and the names of the persons with whom they deal may be kept, wonder if the Russian Hebrews who have been buying and selling junk in carrying out this point of the law?

If, as rumor has it, it is true that there is to be a greater number of stay-at-homes in Newton, the large success of the city will not lack for amusement during the warm months. What with the baseball matches at Newton Centre, the Riverside Recreation Grounds, the Charles' and the Northward, the Newton people will have little reason to complain that the city is too quiet.

Of late there has been much speculation as to the proposed site of the new Newton Memorial Home for aged couples at Upper Falls. As both gentlemen, who constitute the board of directors, are non-residents, Newton people are quite in the dark as to what the realists have done. Considerable interest has been manifested within the past few weeks, and a statement of the trustees intention would be read with interest.

A new chief and new police headquarters, such as Newton possesses, ought to give an inspiration to any department. Yet in justice to Chief Richardson and those who have labored hard during his illness, let us say that there is little, if any need, for inspiration. Everything has always been conducted smoothly and creditably. It cannot be doubted that Chief Tarbox will receive the warmest support of his men, and the hearty endorsement of Newton people in his endeavors to enforce the laws.

The following program has been arranged for the meeting: 10:30 a. m.—Morning session; address of welcome, Mr. E. B. Haskell; "What has a town a right to expect of its library?" Rev. Francis B. ## Pleasant Dreams.

It does not lie in the painter's fancy to imagine a prettier picture than that of a young girl, with lips luscious with the promise of love, and eyes that gleam with happy dreamland. The mind of happy maidenhood is a clear and polished mirror, when the wits go wandering into the ghostland of dreams, reflects the impressions of waking hours. If those impressions are pleasant and painless and happy, she will smile in her sleep. If the impressions are those of a suffering woman, tortured with the special ailments to which the feminine organism is liable, the picture is spoiled by the lines of suffering and despondency. Maladies of this nature unfit a woman for joyous maidenhood and for capable motherhood. They incapacitate her to bear the burdens of life in any sphere of action. Household, marital and social duties alike are a burden to the woman who is constantly suffering from headaches, backaches, dragging sensations and weakness of the limbs. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription positively, completely, unfailingly cures troubles of this nature. It imparts health, strength, vigor to the distinctly womanly organs. It fits for carefree, healthy maidenhood, happy wifehood and capable motherhood.

"I have a little step-daughter who had St. Vitus' Dance, which your medicine cured."—E. E. Emerson, of Ford, Dismal, Va. "I spent about twenty dollars for doctor's bills and medicine and it did not do the child any good. We commenced using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery' and used three bottles of each, and the child is now running around every where and is just as healthy as ever."

CAUCUSES IN NEWTON.

DELEGATES TO THE ALDERMANIC CONVENTION TO BE HELD ON MAY 9.

The Republican caucus to choose delegates to the aldermanic convention, May 9, to nominate a candidate for alderman-at-large from Ward 1 to succeed the late Alderman John S. Potter, were held Tuesday evening. The attendance was light in every case, and no interest was manifested except in Ward 1. In Ward 5 no caucus was held on account of lack of attendance, only the Ward chairman turning out.

The majority of the Ward 1 delegates favor Reuben Forknall, and the delegates elected in Wards 3 and 4 express a preference for John T. Langford. The other delegates have no preference.

The results of the caucuses: Ward 1—J. T. Langford, chairman, Reuben Forknall, sec.; delegates, J. C. Ivy, Wellington Howes, Thomas Weldon, H. W. Downs.

Reception to Chief Tarbox.

Fred A. Tarbox, Newton's new chief of police, assumed the duties of his office this week. Monday evening his appointment was made and confirmed by the board of aldermen. On Tuesday evening he was given a reception in the new police headquarters at West Newton, where Mayor Cobb, the police committee of the city government, and all police department members had an opportunity to meet the new chief.

About 5:45 o'clock Tuesday afternoon the officers of the department, numbering 30 men, marched from the old station, and passing along Washington street, entered the court room in the new building.

Closely following came Chief Tarbox, Mayor Cobb, Aldermen White, Nagle, Shattuck, and Whittlessey, Constable Laime and Lieut. John Ryan. Every speaker referred to ex-Chief Richardson, whose name was the signal for outbursts of applause.

Later three cheers were given for Chief Tarbox and Mayor Cobb.

Pictures of Venice on Exhibition at the Library.

There will be a collection of photographs of Venice, its palaces, churches, bridges, canals, paintings, etc., on exhibition at the Library from May 11 to May 23.

This is a fine set of views and gives an excellent idea of the city, furnishing a good opportunity for those who have visited Venice to recall their associations with its beauties and interests, and for those who have not had the good fortune to have been there to get a good impression of this wonderful "city by the sea."

The pictures are from two hundred to three hundred in number. The mounted ones belong to the Library Art Club, an organization of twenty or more libraries, and the series is accompanied by two albums of additional photographs, loaned by Mr. E. J. Jones, Jr., of Watertown.

The collection will remain at Newton only two weeks, as it must then go on to another library.

High School Notes.

In response to a popular request the entertainment so successfully given in Temple hall, Newtonville, April 16, for the benefit of the High school library, is to be repeated next Tuesday evening at the same place. The program is made up of excellent musical and dramatic features. Both plays are full of mirth provoking situations, which, interpreted by a strong cast cannot fail to win the approval of the audience. The Newton Mandolin and Guitar Club will contribute selections. Dancing will follow the entertainment. It is to be hoped that the efforts of class '98 will receive the generous support of all scholars and friends, as the funds are to be used for the purchase of books to fill the now almost empty shelves. Tickets may be obtained of class '98 members, J. J. Noble's drug store, Newton Centre, and John Payne's drug store, Newtonville.

JUNIORS WON THE MEET.

ANNUAL SPRING CLASS GAMES OF THE INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY HELD ON THE RIVERSIDE RECREATION GROUNDS.

The annual spring class games of the institute of Technology were successfully run off on the new Riverside recreation grounds last Saturday afternoon. The track was in fine condition, but the gale of wind which blew across the track made it impossible for the distance men to make good time. The wind also affected the jumpers and pole vaulters.

The best times were made in the sprints. In both the 100-yard and 220-yard dashes, Burch 99 proved too fast for the rest of the competitors. He ran the 100 in 19.2-5 and the 220-yard in 21.5-5, with the strong wind blowing on the quarter.

Pray 99 showed up particularly strong in the long distance events. He ran the two-mile event in time which, considering the force of the wind, was exceptionally fast. After finishing the two-mile he ran the mile, coming in a strong second.

The quarter-mile was made out the closest finish of the day. Garrett 01, the freshman find, won by two feet over Dutton 00, a dark horse. Dutton also ran well in the 220-yard, finishing a good second. Priest 00, won this half, finishing well within himself.

Wentworth, the track captain, won the high hurdles in a walk, no one being with in 15 yards of him.

While these events were being contested at Riverside, the two-mile bicycle event was run off on the Charles River park. As was expected, the freshman Murray won, with Du Pont 98 second.

The juniors won the meet by a large margin. In the sprints and broad jump, Pray in the distance runs and Schmitt Kimball and Cobb in the weight throwing rolled up a grand total of 50 points. The sophomores and freshmen finished second and third respectively, with the seniors in last place.

The summary: 100-yard dash—First heat won by Hall 00, Sawyer 99, second, Time 10.4-5s. Second heat won by Dutton 00, Grant 00, second, Time 10.3-5s. Third heat won by Wentworth 00, Hubbard 00, second, Time 10.4-5s. Final heat won by Burch 99, Wentworth 00, second, Hall 00, third, Time 10.2-5s.

REAL ESTATE.

P. F. Leland has sold for T. J. Menay, a 67-acre stock and grass farm, with personal property, in Hubbardston, near the village of Williamsville, to C. W. Heath of West Newton. Mr. Heath buys for occupancy and has taken possession.

Mrs. Fannie E. Gates of East Dedham has sold through the office of W. E. Barstow her farm in Holliston known as the Hannah Loring farm. The property is assessed for $1000, and the purchaser, Albert E. Leach of Newton, buys it for a home for his parents.

Consumption

Will SCOTT'S EMULSION cure consumption? Yes and no. Will it cure every case? No. What cases will it cure then? Those in their earlier stages, especially in young people. We make no exaggerated claims, but we have positive evidence that the early use of

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda in these cases results in a positive cure to a large number. In advanced cases, however, where a cure is impossible, this well-known remedy should be relied upon to prolong life surprisingly.

Oh, How Thankful

Pain Was Maddening and Hope Had Been Abandoned—Wonderful Results of Purifying the Blood.

"A very severe pain came in my left knee, which grew worse and worse, and finally a sore broke out above the knee. It discharged a great deal and the pain from my thigh down was maddening. Large, hard, purple spots appeared on my leg. I suffered in this way for years, and gave up all hope of ever being cured. My wife was reading of a case like mine cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, and she advised me to try it. I began taking it and when I had used a few bottles I found relief from my suffering. Oh, how thankful I am for this relief! I am stronger than I have ever been in my life. I am in the best of health, have a good appetite and am a new man altogether."

J. P. MOORE, Lisbon Falls, Maine.

NEWTON CLUB.

The concert Saturday evening by the Harvard Glee and Guitars club was one of the most enjoyable of the members' night entertainments. A fine program of college songs and popular airs was presented, and the formal entertainment was followed by the usual supper.

The entertainment committee has already met with a generous response to its circulars calling for subscriptions for the June series of outdoor concerts. The success of these concerts during the past two seasons has made them one of the most popular fixtures in the club calendar, and there is every prospect of a renewed success this year. Members are pleased with the announcement that admission will be by ticket only this year. The dates thus far settled are June 1, 8, 15, 22, and 29.

The entries for the round robin tournament have not thus far been sufficiently numerous to justify the committee in starting the competition. Unless there is an immediate increase in the number of players entering the tournament the committee will at once give up the competition.

It is not anticipated, evidently, that the trees recently planted along Washington street, will grow to any great extent. Even a moderate growth would not only block up the narrow sidewalk on the south side of the street, but would also interfere with the running of the cars. However, there will be no trouble for the next ten or twenty years, so the present generation need not worry. Perhaps street cars will not be used by that time.

enterprise, has erected a new office buildoffice for the firm's use and waiting room for the convenience of customers. That lady patrons may thoroughly appreciate this latter feature the interior arrangements will be made unusually attractive.

The floor is of hard pine and the finishing of eypress. On the exterior a platform leads from the front door to the street.
The entire building, while not elaborate, is substantially constructed, and completely adapted for the purposes for which it will be used.

TECH DEFEATED AMHERST AT THE RIVERSIDE RECREATION GROUNDS LAST SATURDAY—GOOD ATTENDANCE OF ADULTS—MOSSMAN OF AMHERST TURTLED A MUSCLE.

There was a large attendance at the Amherst-Technology dual track meet on the Riverside recreation grounds last Saturday.

The only drawback to the meet was an injury to Mossman, the crack Amherst hurdler. In the first heat of the hurdles he ruptured a leg muscle. The injury, although slight, seriously weakened Amherst's chance to win.

For Technology, Burch, the sprinter, won the most points. He captured the low hurdles in hollow style, winning by 40 yards. If pressed harder he could have bettered 200 for the distance. In addition he ran a close race with Curtenius, the Amherst sprinter, in the hundred, being barely beaten for first place, and also took third in the broad jump.

Garrett, the well known local half-mile, upheld his reputation by beating out Gladwin, a fast Amherst man, in the half-mile. This race was the closest of the day, Garrett winning out by a break-neck sprint.

The other big point winners for Tech were: Wentworth, winner of the high hurdles; Dutton, who got second in the quarter and third in the low hurdles; and Copp, Schmidt and Kimball, place winners in the weight throwing events.

Technology rolled up her points principally in the field events, winning all the places in the pole vault and shot-put, and taking eight points in the high jump. Amherst was strong in the sprints and long-distance runs.

AMHERST'S BEST MEN.

The Amherst crack horse sprinter, Curtenius, showed up especially well. He won the century by a foot over Burch, the new Tech flyer. In the 200 flat he had a walkover, winning by five yards, in the good time 23.2-5.

Another Amherst star was Furbush, a distance man, and an old Worcester point winner. He won the mile with lots to spare, and then won the two mile by 30 yards against a strong field.

The other Amherst stars were: Strong, who won the quarter and got second in the 220 flat; Burch, who got second in both hurdles, and Gladwin, who captured the broad jump and barely missed a first in the half-mile. Mossman had first in the half-mile. Mossman had first in the half-mile. Mossman had first in the half-mile.

The summary:

Single Tax Club.

The forty-third regular meeting was held Monday evening at 230 Bellevue street. A correction was made as follows: "The local option adopted by the seven or eight New Zealand Municipalities is to tax land values exclusively. The local option aimed at by the 260 British Boroughs and the London County Council is the option to tax land values but not land values exclusively as erroneously stated at previous meeting."

The chairman said, "The Mass. Single Tax League, having closed out some 3500 copies of Sterling Publishing Co's paper volumes, preparatory to new editions by Doubleday & McClure Co., we are able to offer 'The Condition of Labor,' 'Property in Land,' and the 'Land Question,' at 5 cents each or by mail prepaid on receipt of 6 cents in stamps."

Mr. James R. Carret, single tax lawyer, statistician and conveyancer, then read a very interesting paper on "The Necessity of All Men for the Use of the Earth."

Mr. Carret said in part: "The principles which are symbolized by the term 'The Single Tax' do not involve merely a question of taxation: they represent a movement for social and moral reform. Neither are they principles in any way strange or unknown, but simply those which follow from the full recognition and application of principles that we already profess, as I shall show you later. Nor are the facts by which we illustrate those principles in any way obscure or difficult to ascertain: they are simply the plain and familiar facts of our everyday lives."

The vital principle of the Single Tax is the equal right of all men to the use of the earth, which is involved in the right of everyone to life. Why is the right to the use of the earth of vital importance to us? What is the earth and what are we? The earth is the foundation, the base, the support of man created by God who has also put us on it and fixed the limitations of our existence. With us human beings, body, mind and soul are inseparably connected. The earth is the basis of our physical existence, being the basis of our mental, moral, spiritual life.

Let us illustrate the truth that the things which satisfy our physical needs are the product of the application of the principle of taking any one of the articles of food that may have been set before us for breakfast this morning, the dish of oatmeal or cracked wheat, the cup of coffee or the bread. Take the cracked wheat for an example. The grain was raised by some farmer in Minnesota or North Dakota. In the fall or spring he prepared the ground and planted the seed. In late spring or early fall when the crop was ripe, he harvested it and threshed out the grain. Then he sold or consigned it to some grain operator in a large city and delivered it at the nearest railroad station, carrying it there in his wagon. There other men took charge of it, loaded it upon the cars and transported it by rail and by wagon to a grain elevator in Minneapolis or St. Paul. The grain operator sorted it according to its quality, and it was put into bins. Then it was sold and was carried by other men to a mill. There other men worked on it and it was crushed and ground and put up in packages. Many of these were put into a packing case by employees in the mill. Then other men took this and transported it by wagon and by rail until it reached a wholesale house in this city. They sold a number of packages to your grocer, and he in turn sold a package to you, and in your family again labor was applied to it and it was finally served on the table this morning.

It was by applying his labor to land that the farmer raised the grain. It was because he and other men had applied their labor to the land that they were able to live in food for the support of himself and his family while raising his crop of grain. It was because other men had applied their labor to land that there existed a highway and a railroad by which his grain was transported to market; that there was a grain elevator to receive it, bins in which it could be placed after sorting, a mill to grind it, and other railroads and highways by which it could be transported to Boston and so to your door. Thus this simple article of a morning dish of oatmeal followed into its remotest ramifications brings into view the action of the hands of millions of people, each of whom has contributed his proportion to the service that resulted in the food that was set before you this morning.

And each one of these lives by the materials which come from land and by the use of land, and can only so live. Take any occupation whatever or the life of any human being, and you will find that he has had to stand upon the soil of the land, or by the materials which come from the land. So that we can say in brief that the use of land is essential to life.

That being the case, the principle is that which governs the relations of men to each other in respect to land? Are some men more entitled to life than others? If so, then those who have the superior right can not only dispossess but they can take the life of others. Men have submitted to such claims in barbarous times. Among barbarous tribes now existing on the earth, undoubtedly such a claim of right is asserted, but they have not the power to enforce it. The superior right is not theirs, it is ours, and we are not to be governed by the claims of barbarous times. Among barbarous tribes now existing on the earth, undoubtedly such a claim of right is asserted, but they have not the power to enforce it. The superior right is not theirs, it is ours, and we are not to be governed by the claims of barbarous times.

The right to life necessarily implies the exclusive right of every man to the things which he obtains from the earth by his labor, either directly or by exchange with any other man. In other words, every man has an exclusive right to the product of his own labor.

Now who should be blamed for this state of things? Is it to be blamed on the man who possesses these privileges which enable him to live by the fruit of other men's soil? It is the community as a whole which creates these privileges and allows men to acquire them. The man who is so simply acting according to human nature, which impels him to get what they want with the least possible exertion. That is as natural as breathing. There is probably not a man in this room who would not do the same thing if he had an opportunity. Those who should be blamed are the people themselves who allow this state of things to continue. They have the remedy in their own hands. These privileges have been established by law and can be changed by law. Their power for harm can be entirely destroyed by a change in the methods of taxation. The power for good can be entirely destroyed by a change in the methods of taxation. The power for harm can be entirely destroyed by a change in the methods of taxation. The power for good can be entirely destroyed by a change in the methods of taxation.

Mr. Carret also gave figures for Boston under the Single Tax in 1897 which will be continued at next meeting. The meeting was an unusually full one and abounding in question and comment.

The next meeting will be on Monday, May 23rd, Subject: "Can a Tax upon Ground Rent be Shifted?"

A LOVE SONG.

[From the Boston Transcript.]

Why do I love her? ah! I can anyone tell
Why flowers love sunshine, and feel its soft spell
And turn their bright faces to follow its light,
From morning's first beams till it drops out of sight
Behind the dark hills that reflect its soft glow,
And mirror its light in the river below?

She's not tall nor stately, imposing nor grand,
Yet I thrill at the touch of her dear little hand,
And my heart leaps for joy at sight of her face,
Which speaks naught but gentleness, goodness and grace.

At the sound of her voice, so tender and low,
All perplexities vanish, all discord, all woe,
And the light shining out from her serious eyes,
Hells gaze into mine with such childlike surprise.
And the grave little look that rebukes my complaint
Of the cold world's injustice, remind of some saint Whose spirit still lingers, imprisoned in hers,
And upon weary mortals its blessing confers.

Her presence restores all the faith of my youth
In ideal, lofty womanhood, purity, truth;
And I hear not of the thunder of Juggernaut's car,
And I crushes its victims, who shriek from afar;
Nor the roar and the tumult of battle at a strife,
In the fight for existence, for honor, for life.

Her music tells all I have tried to express;
And her touch on the keys is like a caress
That calls into being some soul shut within,
That knows naught of sadness or sorrow or sin,
And it wakens the memories of days that are gone,
When life was all gladness, regret all unborn.

For music is only a high form of speech
To bridge o'er the gulf which mere words cannot reach.
In music her love finds expression, I ween;
Halt, woman, half angel, I deem her my queen!
God grant that the love which her soul gives to mine
May find in my life an expression sublime.

Reflecting therein its own radiant light,
Dewy with the shadows and darkness of night,
And teaching a faith in humanity's worth,
And respect for the weakest and humblest of earth,
What more, pray, than this can a woman's love do
Than to show us the love, universal and true.

And to teach our poor groveling souls to aspire
To heights that lead ever up higher and higher?
Why I love her! ah! I can anyone tell
Why flowers love sunshine and feel its soft spell?
'Tis their instinct and mine to seek after the light—
They find it in sunshine, and I in Love's might.

Newton Boys Leave Monday.

It is now stated by the officers of Co. C that at 6.30 next Monday morning the company will leave Newton for Eastern Point, Gloucester, where they will be detailed for patrol duty with the second brigade, 5th regt., M. V. M.

Every preparation has been made, and the arrangements are such that but an hour's notice will be required. The boys will probably be in camp for about eight days. Upon their departure the third brigade will occupy their camp for the same period.

For several evenings this week the company members have been undergoing rigid examinations. Some who were rejected last week by the regimental examining staff have been admitted again into the company's ranks by the certificates of other physicians.

The gaiting gun was taken from the Washington street armory last Monday morning for the use of Co. I of Attleboro, which is now stationed at Eastern Point.

There is a possibility of Co. C being detailed for several weeks' and possibly more, service on the coast this summer. Nothing definite on this point can be said as yet, as the future developments of the war will alone govern the prospects of the company.

Newton's Easy Victory.

Saturday's game on the Cedar street grounds proved unusually tame. Newton had as its opponents a nine from the Roxbury A. A., who were no match for the home players. From the start the visitors showed they were outclassed.

Dowd struck out 17 men with little difficulty. About 200 witnessed the game.

The Score:
Runs made by Whittemore 2, Dickinson 4, Bowen 3, Goodrich 2, Clarke 2, Rea, Winslow 3, Dowd, Cushing. Two-base hits, Bowen, Clarke, Cushing. Home run, Rea. ## THE DAWN OF WOMANHOOD.

Earnest Words From Mrs. Pinkham to Mothers Who Have Daughters, and a Letter From Mrs. Dunmore, of Somerville, Mass.

The advent of womanhood is fraught with dangers which even careful mothers too often neglect.

One of the dangers to a young woman is belated menstruation. "The lily droops on its stem and dies before its beauty is unfolded;" or she may have entered into the perfection of womanhood with little apparent inconvenience or disorder of health. But suddenly the menses entirely cease.

Mother, puerile malady is taking hold of your daughter, and quick consumption may follow! Take in stant steps to produce regular menstruation.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is certain to assist nature to perform her regular duties, procure it at once; there are volumes of testimony from grateful mothers who have had their daughters' health restored by its use. If personal advice is desired, write quickly to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. It will be given you without charge, and it will be the advice of abundant experience and success.

Read the following from Mrs. CHARLES DUNMORE, 102 Fremont St., Winter Hill, Somerville, Mass.:

"I was in pain day and night; my doctor did not seem to help me. I could not seem to find any relief until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

Vegetable Compound. I had inflammation of the womb, a bearing-down pain, and the whites very badly. The pain was so intense that I could not sleep at night. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a few months, and am now all right. Before that I took morphine pills for my pains; that was a great mistake, for the relief was only momentary and the effect vile. I am so thankful to be relieved of my sufferings, for the pains I had were something terrible."

PICKED UP.

The every-day duties of a permanent fireman, who is compelled to remain day and night in the engine house waiting to be called upon, must become rather monotonous. Of course when the bells are sounded there is excitement for a while, but such occasions are not of sufficiently frequent occurrence to satisfy the fire laddies. Something out of the ordinary is readily welcomed therefore, and a still alarm, which gives the company alone chance to distinguish itself, is received with open arms. Such an opportunity, while it did not call for an act of daring bravery, was given a certain company in Newton the other day. Some one who happened to be passing a certain dwelling near the square, discovered smoke in large quantities issuing from a second story. Being one of those thoroughly "excited individuals," about which so much has been written, he ran to the engine house nearby and notified the firemen. Not a minute was lost, and every available company member including all the permanent men, possessed themselves of a handgrenade or an axe, and started for the burning building. Up the front steps, into the lower hall, and then ascending the stairs the fire-fighters forced their way through a heavy and unusually suffocating smoke to a room on the second floor. Bursting in the door with united efforts, they were unprepared to find a fire. Bitter disappointment faced them instead. There had been a fire once, but now all that remained was a guilty pile of smoldering sulphur, which had been used in fumigating the room lately occupied by a sick person.

While it yet may be only an innocent rumor, the talk of three deliveries in those villages which have but recently enjoyed the privileges of the carrier system, is making many residents of these wards unusually hopeful. There is scarcely a citizen who would not be willing, yet anxious, to have the change effected. If carried out it would require more men, that the routes might be shortened, and each carrier have less ground to cover. It may be of no avail, yet those who feel it most desirable would do well to suggest it to the postal authorities.

Here is a genuine case of "hoss and hoss." A local paper criticizes the post-office officials at Newton for not sending a letter in its office over night! Rather remarkable, yet the writer in his paper says: "A letter mailed at the Newton postoffice at 6 p. m. Saturday, May 2nd, and bearing that post mark, reached its destination, only a short distance from the office, as early as Tuesday morning! Rapid transit, we don't think!" Now of course every body knows that May 2nd came on Monday. Did the mail-finding correspondent mean May 1st, May 2nd, and expect a midnight delivery would be established for this particular missive, or was he looking at the calendar for April, and really meant Saturday, April 30th. The newspaper people are probably quite as ready with an explanation as he is.

An old landmark has been replaced in Newtonville this week. Every old timer in the ward has for months been wondering what has been lacking in the village, and only this week have the people woken up to realize what they have been without, the flag pole, which for many years stood in the center of the old square, on the north side of the track. Well, it was replaced at a good time.

Newton has not sent many men to the front yet, but judging from the amount of bunting displayed our city is not much behind in the matter of patriotism. Speaking of bunting, who said there was a bunting trust? Why has not some enterprising pessimist discovered in the existence of such a trust the real reason for this war?

Newton's coppers are going to be in the swim. Not to be outdone by their fellows in Boston they propose to have the largest and handsomest flag which money can procure, float over the new headquarters building, and have already secured a considerable sum for this purpose.

Newton was in Pagan darkness for nearly a half hour, Tuesday evening, owing to an eccentricity on the part of the electric lights. Shortly after 8 o'clock the incandescent and arc lights throughout the city were suddenly extinguished, leaving a blackness that was capable of covering more sins than all kinds of charity. It was during the progress of the amateur theatricals at Temple Hall, Newtonville, that the unfortunate event occurred. Just as the first farce was nearing the finale, and without the slightest warning, the brilliant glow of the electric lights disappeared, leaving the audience in complete darkness. There was a general laugh, followed by a tremendous storm of applause. The management was not slow in announcing the cause of the trouble, and soon had the gas lights burning. The orchestra then took a hand at amusing the audience and after twenty minutes had slipped by the curtain was again rung up and the play resumed. When the actor, whose soliloquy had been interrupted, commenced again the recital of his lines, he was greeted with great applause.

Of course it must be grand for those young men who are on duty on board the U. S. warships to return home on a furlough, and walk about with their uniforms on receiving many compliments and being admired by the fair sex. Such a thing, however, may be overdone as a young man whom the writer saw last Sunday will probably agree. He was dressed in the full regalia of his office and was calmly seated in church when some ever watchful eye spotted him and then a hundred pairs were gazing in his direction. This did not seem to disturb the young man, but when he left the edifice at the close of the service the procession of about twenty, made up of children and older patriotic admirers, followed in his train, he blushed deeply and hustled along as though a command "to the guns" had been given.

Special Aldermanic Convention.

Every delegate was present at the special aldermanic convention of Newton Republicans held Monday evening in G. A. R. Hall, Newtonville. Those who looked for an uninteresting session were somewhat disappointed, as Mr. Forknall carried the nomination off by a small majority. The friends of O. M. Fisher made a strong effort in his behalf, but the majority of votes and eloquence were against him. Shortly before 8 o'clock, Mr. George H. Staples called the meeting to order. Mr. Robert H. Gardner was elected chairman, and Mr. C. E. Hatfield secretary.

Alderman J. C. Ivy presented the name of Mr. Reuben Forknall speaking of him as representative of the ward, and a good Republican.

Col. D. W. Farquhar in presenting the name of Mr. O. M. Fisher, recommended his nomination as a staunch Republican and representative citizen. His remarks were endorsed by Mr. C. S. Brown.

Judge J. C. Kennedy did not approve of the nomination coming from any ward but Ward 1. That district he thought should have the preference in making the nominations.

Alderman Ivy, Ex-Alderman H. W. Downs and Mr. G. S. Smith endorsed Mr. Forknall. They criticized the proceedings of the delegates of other wards who endorsed an nominee who was not a resident of Ward 1.

Mr. Staples explained that it was the custom to allow the ward delegation to make the nomination. Judge Kennedy spoke further on this point after which a ballot was taken and Mr. Forknall nominated by a vote of 12 to 16.

The special election for the alderman-at-large for one year will take place May 27.

Open Air Dog Show of N. E. Kennel Club.

The Open Air Show of the New England Kennel Club, which takes place on June 4th, at Braintree, Mass., seems to be an assured success, judging from the interest which exhibitors are showing. Many who have not recently shown with the New England Kennel Club have promised a goodly number of dogs.

The Open Air Show of last year was a great success, but it is believed that this show will far eclipse the former as it is to be held under A. K. C. rules, and the list of judges is a popular one.

Perhaps one of the most interesting features of the show to the general public will be the special prizes. Those which we have prepared at present writing are as follows:

A Sporting Special, which will be a very novel event, will consist of a handsome and appropriate prize for a sportsman, offered for the best three couple of Beagles, shown with man and whip mounted. Honor will be to count 50 per cent and performance, horses and appointments 50 per cent. Horses must be shown over at least two jumps and the pack will be required to show their ability to run a trail. There is no charge for entry, and each competing dog must have been entered in the appropriate regular class. Also a Sporting Special, same conditions as above, for foxhounds, to be competed for by packs from any recognized hunt.

Another specialty, The Harvard Special, will be a $25 silver cup, to be competed for by any dog owned by a member or club of Harvard University.

A prize is offered for the best sporting dog in the show; also one for the best non-sporting dog in the show.

The Boston Terrier Club offers a long list of specials, including a $50 silver cup to be competed for at this show, and two other succeeding shows.

The Irish Terrier Club of America has offered twelve special prizes of good amounts, to be competed for by members of the club.

There are a great many more from specialty clubs which we have heard from, but which have not reached the committee in proper form yet and will be announced later through the press.

The premium list has 102 regular classes. The following breeds have been given name, limited and open classes, with all classes divided according to sex:

Cocker Spaniels, Bull Dogs, Bull Terriers, Beagles, Fox Terriers, both smooth and wire haired, Irish Terriers and Boston Terriers.

The three last breeds have puppy classes. The following breeds have novice, limited and open classes, with the sex undivided:

Rough-coated St. Bernards, American Foxhounds, Pointers, English, Irish and Gordon Setters, Collies, Poodles, Dachshunds, Scottish Terriers.

All other popular breeds have open class with no limit.

In making the above classification, the committee has been governed by entries of exhibitors in former shows; and in some instances, if the classification seems too general, it is because experience has shown that lack of entries makes it evidently useless to be more specific.

Any exhibitor who will send a check for $6 to the committee, covering three entries, and requesting an entry class to be opened, his request will be most cheerfully complied with; and should the class fill, this guarantee will be returned to him.

The New England Kennel Club offers a rough-coated St. Bernard of four dogs in a litter, and no charge for entry, and each competing dog must have been entered in the appropriate regular class.

In all classes which warrant it, a winner's ribbon will be given.

James Mortimer will judge all terriers except Boston Terriers, Bull Dogs, Dachshunds, Bloodhounds, Greyhounds, Great Danes, Old English Sheep Dogs and miscellaneous.

Harry W. Lacy, Mastiffs, St. Bernards, all Spaniels, Russian Wolfhounds, Deerhounds, Poodles and Beagles.

George W. Lovell, Setters and Pointers. Arthur Mayley, Boston Terriers.

For particulars address Roy B. Baker, secretary, care N. E. K. C., Braintree, Mass.

Old Landmark Gone.

Piles of rubbish and discolored brick surrounded by the half demolished foundation walls, tell the story of the tearing down of a building which once laid claim to more than ordinary distinction as a landmark and historical figure in Newton.

For over 200 years there stood until this week, a large wooden dwelling on Washington street just east of the fire engine house at Newton. Though never the home of George Washington or his family, it has sheltered many a warrior. Heroes of every war since the Revolution have slept beneath its roof.

Standing on this site for these two centuries it has witnessed the march of progress in Newton. Within a short distance of its windows have been enacted many stirring scenes, and events of important record have taken place within the walls.

The work of dismantling the structure has been about a week. During that time scores have watched the operations. Some of them idlers, some but curious passers by and others in search of antiquities. These latter have not been disappointed as several army buttons and ancient coins have been unearthed. A bone power-horn bearing the date of 1790 was found concealed within the floors between the first and second stories. The horn is carved with a scroll in the form of an eagle and shield together with a pennant, the latter bearing the name "J. Farrell" with the letters "T. P. U. and C. B." It is the possession of Engineer Frank Judkins, stamper 1.

The old house itself was recently purchased by Mr. H. G. Chesley, from Mr. George W. Bridges.

It was better known as the Hall estate, having been in the possession of that family for over 40 years. In 1815 it was purchased by Mr. George Hall, father of Mr. George W. Hall of Elmwood street. At that time it formed a portion of the Hastings estate, which was perhaps the largest in the city. The Hastings family were prominently identified with the history of Newton, and were well known for their part in the Revolutionary War. In that portion of the building which afterwards was used for a parlor, was the first store in this part of the city. In this room Father Ballou, Father Streeter, and Father Murray, leaders of the Universalist faith, preached at different times to congregations made up of residents of Newton and the surrounding towns.

When in the possession of Mr. Hall it formed a part of an estate, which included many hundred acres. Mr. Hall conducted a cattle slaughtering business, and was a representative and highly esteemed citizen. He died in 1855. The death of his wife occurred some five years later, at which time the farm was sold and the property, including this house, passed into several hands.

The exact date of the building of the original house is not known yet there can be no doubt but what it has stood for 200 years. In 1834 Mr. Hall built a good-sized addition. The difference in construction of this and the old portion of the building was marked by the workmen while removing the woodwork.

Mr. George Hall of Elmwood street, who was able to furnish information about the old building to a GRAPHIC representative, is the best informed regarding the old building's history, of any resident of Newton. He remembers a great many incidents and facts, which are of extreme interest to students of the city's history.

Unfortunately a glass window on which was written the names of many members of the original Hastings family, was destroyed when the building was partially burned some months ago. It is thought that at that time other things were lost, that might have been of some assistance in tracing the facts about the structure.

In connection with the removal of this famous landmark, a handsome tree on the adjoining lot, had to be sacrificed. This tree was planted by Mr. George W. Hall, 68 years ago, and flourished up to date, being admired as one of the tallest and handsomest in this part of the city.

Its height is not now known, but measured two feet from the ground it is nine and one-half feet in circumference.

AN HISTORICAL EPISODE.

MRS. O'BRIEN'S VIEW OF THE DISCOVERY OF AMERICA BY COLUMBUS.

"Of course, Biddy, as you're ignorant o' 'nolledge, and we're goin' to have a war wid the dagoes, 'tis only right that you should know how America was discovered by Chris Columbus ages on ages ago, before little apples were made and before lame Connolly got the job to be drivin' cows off the railroad track.

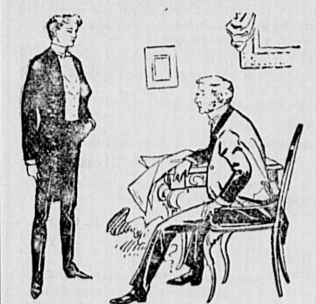

"You must know, then, that Chris was a hand organ grinder, and he had a little black monkey wid a tail longer nor a poker, and wan day when he was goin' through the bee-utiful town o' Cadeez in Spain, where should he come but in front o' the bee-utiful palace o' Queen Isabella, and she sittin' up in the windy readin' a copy o' 'Little Leafy,' written by Laura Blue Jeans, all about the girl that climbed over the convent wall into the arms of her lover.

"Ye'll mind, this was long before McKinley sint the ultimatum to Sagastions, Biddy. Well, Chris began to play 'Take Back Your Goo!' in front of the palace and she calls out to Chris and says: 'Come up, and bring your little box wid you.' And whin she had him in the parlor she axes him could he do anything but twist the handle o' the little box.

"And he said he could make a banty hin's egg stand on the little ind. And she said he was a liar, that she handled a thousand o' them banty hin's eggs herself and that he could not make a banty hin's egg stand on the little ind, but that if he could make it stand on the little ind she would sint him over to America to discover it, and he sint go by the way of Galway. So the bee-utiful quane called in her Ethiopian nagur with a goold ring in his nose, and says to him: 'Base minion! Base minion! Bring in wan o' them banty hin's eggs I'm afther gettin' in the haymow this mornin' wid me ow' royal hands, and be quick about it or I'll cut your dirty head from your shoulders, you black thafe!"

"So the nagur brought in the egg on a goolden plate, and while all the courtiers and ladies and princes and lady-lucks was lookin' at him he took the egg bechane his thumb and finger and fetched it down hard on the table and bruk it and made it stand up.

"And the beautiful quane was mighty plazed wid Chris and gave him $4000 she got for hooking her jewels and told him to hurry and discover America for her, and when he landed at the barge office, bekore there was steps there to be walkin' up, he must be sure to find the man that struck Billy Patterson, and thin he must go to Ohio and find a man by the name o' Hayes, that kept him, and he must ask him if a hind and a half lay and a hind and a half in a day and a half, how many eggs will sink him in two weeks, and whin he came back she would reward him wid wan of her royal garters and—Faith, Biddy, I must run. I left the supper on the stove. I'll tell you the rest tomorrow."—Mickey Finn in New York Evening World.

When a young man asks a father for his daughter's hand in marriage, if the father is a wise one, he thinks of one thing equally as important as the young man's morals, social and business standing and intelligence. A young man who suffers from bronchitis, weak lungs, spitting of blood or any disease of the air passages which, if neglected leads up to consumption, may take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery with almost absolute assurance of recovery. It cures 98 per cent. of all cases when taken in time. It soothes and heals the delicate and sensitive tissues of the air-passages and lungs, checks the cough, facilitates expectoration, drives out all impurities and disease germs from the tainted blood and builds new and healthy tissues.

Mr. John G. Born, of 4030 Liberty Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa., writes: "Some thirty months ago I said to my wife, 'I don't want to keep anything from you. I must tell you I am in the last stage of consumption.' In December 1896 I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I could then only speak in whispers. I have taken thirteen bottles, and can say with truth I am greatly benefited. People are surprised to hear me speak. I can halloo, and my voice has not been as good in eight years. My stomach was never in better condition. Formerly I could not eat without suffering very much immediately after, but now I can eat anything."

BRIDGE BUILDING.

Newton people have had a valuable lesson in the art of bridge building. It was supposed before the separation of grade crossings began that the way to build a bridge was to go ahead and build it, that it was a rather simple affair, and a few weeks or months were all that was necessary to have the bridge completed.But in that opinion we only displayed our ignorance. Building a modern bridge is a very serious matter and takes more time than to build a first-class battle ship.
There evidently is "a strategic board" to be consulted, and as the builders can not cut the cable and get away from it, as Dewey did, they have to wait the action of this board, whether it is located in the office of the bridge company or at the Boston & Albany headquarters.A year or more ago, a start was made on the Centre and Washington street bridges, and the people felt encouraged. After six months or so, the two or three men employed managed to get a wooden plank across, and half of each bridge was opened.
In two or three months more the men were overturned by cold weather and disappeared, presumably because like some animals they hibernate during the winter. The warm weather of March did not bring them out, but along about the middle of April they appeared again, laid concrete over half of each bridge, and have again disappeared, taking their tools with them, and one half of each bridge is still closed.It is not definitely known whether the responsibility for the delay is with the Bridge company or the railroad company.
Some say that the railroad company wants to delay as long as possible the running of the West End cars into Nonantum square, and that this explains the Fabian policy.
Others say that the Bridge company is at fault, as it has a great many contracts, and puts in a few days here and a few days there, to keep every one satisfied. Others say the delay is with the asphalt company, which has to seal men a long distance to do the work, and they are not able to get material enough to finish the job.It is certainly a curious state of affairs, when these two important bridges, together with the St. James street bridge, the Centre place bridge and the Lewis terrace bridge are left half done for so many months, and the suggestion is made that the city government should address some very emphatic remonstrances to the railroad company.
Possibly in the midst of all this excitement about the war, these unfinished bridges have been forgotten.The regular army officers, who have earned their positions by hard service, do not look with favor on the recent nominations to high positions in the army, which represent favoritism and nothing more.
Why should young "Jimmy" Blaine be made assistant adjutant general, with the rank of captain, when he has had no experience, and has no merit in himself? Secretary Alger's son and the son of Senator Allison are in the same class with young Blaine, and so are a host of others.
We have a regular training school for army officers, and the hope of promotion is held out to inspire them to faithful work. But if the regular officers are to be passed by and political influence be allowed to rule, then there will not be much hope of efficient service, and the army will be demoralized. Men who have seen years of hard service and know something of military affairs are passed over and young men who have only a political pull to recommend them are appointed to the high positions.
The whole thing approaches the nature of a national scandal, and if the army were to see hard service the country would pay dearly for this return to the spoils system.Victories like that of Manila are not won by officers appointed solely because their fathers have political influence, and we ought to leave that sort of thing to the Spaniards, who furnish an eloquent example of the results of such a policy.In the midst of all this war talk Charles J. Bonaparte, the civil service reformer, takes occasion to fire hot shot at the spoils system, showing how the Hannas have wrecked the Spanish nation, by their following the theory that "public office is a private snap" He says:For the past 400 years Spain has systematically treated appointments in her civil service as "spoils," that is to say, as rewards for success in palace intrigues or political struggles, bestowed upon the protectors of court favorites and party leaders, with little, if any, regard for the appointees' fitness or the interests of the people they should serve. Through the persistent application of this policy, Spain retains, of the vast possessions which were once hers by right of discovery, only the Philippines, Cuba, and Porto Rico, all three seething with discontent, and the first two in chronic rebellion. By treating public office in her dependencies as a "private snap" she has irretrievably forfeitedthe affection and loyalty of their people;
nor has she proved any better able to enforce their permanent submission. This military impotency is due in large measure to the fact that for the past 50 years the Spanish army has "gone into politics," in its barracks have been hatched numerous plots against successive governments, and nearly all its more prominent officers have figured in changes (actual or attempted) of administration or dynasty. The corruption of her public service, civil and military, has cost Spain a world.The lesson should not be lost upon Americans at this time, when we are taking in the distant Spanish colonies. The corruption of Spanish office-holders is one of the chief causes of her decline, and it ought to serve as a terrible warning of the results of such a policy.The portable saw mill has made havoc on some of the pretty country roads, the past winter, and for the few dollars thus gained the beauty of a whole section of country is destroyed. On the road to Concord there has always been a delightful stretch of forest along Walden Pond, but the past winter a great part of it has been cut off, and only a barren sandy stretch is left,
which is only one of many instances of the way the rural beauty of the country roads has been sacrificed. Some of the country towns have also had a spasm for what they call improving things, and have been grubbing up all the wild shrubs that have made the roads so attractive. Fortunately nature has many resources, and will immediately proceed to fill in the vacant spaces, although it will be several years before the past beauty of the roads will be regained.In the national Senate, when a motion was made to cut down the exorbitant rates the government pays for carrying the mails, it was instructive to see how the senators rallied in defence of the railroads, under the leadership of Quay, and the motion was overwhelmingly defeated. But that is just what many of the senators were elected for, to take care of the corporations which helped pay their election expenses. It is said that if the railroads were paid for carrying the mails only what they receive for carrying express matter, that the postal department would be able to show a surplus. There is no hope of any reduction, however, as long as the present method of electing senators is followed.Now that the Spanish fleet is proved to have no intention of coming to this side of the ocean, sea shore property will again begin to boom, and people with seaside homes will decide to occupy them as usual.
Besides, the war will probably be over before the regular date for opening the seaside hotels, and if not, the presence of so many soldiers along the shore, and the sight of the war ships which guard the coast will make the season unusually lively and enjoyable to all but excessively timid people.The government bureau of statistics has been managed in such a manner by Worthington C. Ford as to have the confidence of all parties, but a place was wanted for one of Hanna's men, a maker of stump-speech figures for the Republican national committee, and Mr. Ford is removed and Hanna's heeler put in. The carrying out of Hanna's campaign bargains is the one discreditable thing about the present administration.The incident of the Williams regiment reminds the correspondent of the Springfield Republican of the story which George Bradburn, the old abolitionist, used to tell.
of the unpopular sinner in Bangor who applied for membership in the church, and was informed, after prayerful deliberation, that "the church in Bangor was full."

A TERRIBLE DEATH.

MISS MARJORIE HOWARD KILLED BY A TRAIN NEAR FANEUIL.Miss Marjorie Marsh Howard, the youngest daughter of Capt. S. E. Howard of West Newton, was instantly killed by a train on the B. & A. railroad on Wednesday evening at about 8.30 o'clock. She was a member of the senior class of the Newton high school and was to have been graduated next month as the salutatorian of her class.

TRIBUTE FROM HER PASTOR.

Miss Marjorie Marsh Howard, youngest daughter of Capt. S. E. Howard of Putnam street, West Newton, who was instantly killed by a train on Wednesday evening, was a young lady of unusual intellect and scholarship, and of great promise. Her lovely character had especially endeared her not only to her classmates of the Newton high school, but to all who knew her. She stood first in her class and was to have been graduated in June, after which she intended to spend a year in European travel with her family. She was a lovely and devoted daughter, and a rarely beautiful family circle has been broken by her sudden and untimely death.

THEODORE P. BRUDEN.

FROM HER HIGH SCHOOL TEACHER.

The sudden death of Marjorie M. Howard comes as a terrible blow to her companions and friends. She had passed through the schools of Newton, with high honors in every grade, and was about to graduate from the high school where she had attained the highest rank secured by any scholar of her class. She had already been appointed to deliver the commencement oration on the day of graduation next June.
But it was not merely for her high scholarship that she was esteemed by her friends and teachers. Indeed, so quiet and unobtrusive was she in the class-room, that her accurate knowledge and ready wit were not fully appreciated until she was well known.She was interested in every side of school life. Not only in her studies and in the work of the ca thesthenics battalion, in which she was one of the captains, but in every high endeavor and every harmless sport she was a leader. Only Tuesday evening of this week she took a prominent part in an entertainment given by the pupils of the school for the benefit of the school library.
Her life in school had been almost ideally pleasant. Her mind was so active that she accomplished her tasks with comparatively little effort. Her beautiful Christian character won friends on every side. Calm, quiet, forceful and earnest, she made her influence felt among all her companions.
Her many friends will ever cherish the memory of her earnest faithfulness, of high ideals and of duty well done.
Her family has the heartfelt sympathy of the whole community.

S. WARREN DAVIS.

Admiral Dewey's Portrait.

The portrait of Admiral George Dewey, U. S. N., the hero of Manila, which we publish today, is from the Boston Journal, being one of the half-tone photographs appearing every week in the New England House Magazine and Illustrated Weekly supplements of the Boston Sunday Journal.

for the annexation of the Hawaiian islands, as they are the key to the north Pacific.—Mr. Sydney Grant has been in town this week.—Miss Marcy of Boston visited friends here this week.—Mayor Cobb has been in New York this week on a business trip.—Col. A. M. Ferris has been elected a member of the Loyal Legion.—George B. Hartop has taken the position of janitor at the new bank building.—The Channing Union will meet next Sunday evening at 7.30. Subject, "Duty."—Mr. Charles F. Rogers is slowly improving, and is able to sit up a short time each day.—To get ready for war call at the American barber shop for a military hair cut.
Barns, Cole's block.—Some time this week a house owned by H. E. Bodfield on the Farlow estate, Nonantum street, was entered by thieves and a quantity of lead pipe stolen.—The members of the Farther Lights Society of the Immanuel Baptist church met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs.
Sondericker on Oakleigh road.—Sarah Hall Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, will meet with Mrs. Levi L.
Tower, Newtonville avenue, Wednesday, May 25th, three until six o'clock.—At the recent 49th annual meeting of the Mission to the Children, the Destitute, held in Boston, Mr. Warren P. Tyler was elected vice-president of the organization.—Willie Hayes, 17, of Crescent square was committed to the Lyman school for boys at Chelmsford in the police court, this morning, for the larceny of several rabbits.—Through the generosity of day Patrolmen J. J. Davis and Wm. Dolan a handsome flag was purchased which now flies from the staff on police station 2, Nonantum. The flag-raising exercises took place Wednesday noon, and were witnessed by a party of citizens.—A steam roller, a plow and a number of horses and men appeared on Centre place, this morning, and it looks very much as if the street was to be finished. The Boston & Albany house still occupies the middle of the sidewalk, but the woodpiles on the opposite sidewalk are being moved and the bridge approaches graded.—The Associated Wheelmen, composed of members of eastern Massachusetts Y.
M. C. A's, has recently organized. The plan is runs to places of popular interest, after which the entire club will be entertained at the Y. M. C. A., to which city they have gone. The plan is meeting with favor, and will no doubt be successful.—The Carpenters' Union gave a very successful musical entertainment, in Nonantum hall, last Thursday evening, followed by refreshments of ice cream, cake, coffee and fruit. Fully one hundred were in attendance and many were kept away by im-clement weather. It has been decided to hold another similar entertainment soon.—It is said by some of the older inhabitants that the village of Newton once had a flag pole and a handsome flag. The pole was located in Nonantum square and was taken down because it had become unsafe.
The flag was kept in Mr. Charles F. Rogers' drug store, and its unfurling in the exciting days of 1861 was quite an event. It would not be a bad idea to have another pole put up, to show the patriotism of Newton, and a movement is on foot to raise funds for the purpose, although some think that as the flag on Armory Hall is a city flag, and can be seen from all directions, it is evidence enough of our patriotism and flag poles should be left to smaller villages which have no public buildings from which flags can be displayed.

greatly pleased at the liberal response with which its appeal for subscriptions has been satisfaction of members.HOOD'S PILLS cure Liver Ills, Bil-

—The Mandolin Club, composed of eighteen fine performers, will be one of the special features of the Masonic Minstrel entertainment at Bray's Hall, Newton Centre, next Thursday evening.

—A union meeting of the young people's societies of Newtonville was held at the Universalist church on Sunday morning last. Prayer was offered by Rev. C. S. Nickerson, pastor of the church, and an informal address on the Bible was delivered by Rev. Dr. Patrick.

—The monthly sociable at the Universalist church was held Wednesday evening under the direction of the land-a-hand society. A patriotic song was served at six. The farce, "No Cure, No Pay," was presented with admirable effect. A good musical program was presented.

—Boynott Lodge, W. O. I. O. L., gave a successful hurdy gurdy party Wednesday evening in Denison hall. A large party was present and a most enjoyable evening was passed. Light refreshments were served and whist was enjoyed by those who did not care for dancing.

—The much-talked of foot bridge from Central avenue to the station is in position, and workmen are putting it in condition for use, and expect to have it finished by Sunday. It will be a great convenience for people from that section, as it saves the long walk round by the Walnut street bridge.

—Miss Nellie Brown gave a whist party Wednesday evening at her home on Walnut street in honor of her brother who was home for a few days. Mr. Brown is a student at Harvard, and a member of the class of '98. Music was a feature of the evening's entertainment. Light refreshments were served.

—Mr. Leon C. Carter recently sold a stable on Cabot street to Mr. Thomas Brady, which he wished to move away. This he undertook to accomplish without a permit. Dutton of the Central Congregational church is expected to take part, and His Honor, Mayor Cobb, has been invited.

—The Bulloughs pond drain is assuming its final shape, and will probably soon be ready for the flooding of the pond, which will be a great addition to the beauties of that part of Newton. Many teams are still employed in excavating the hills on the east side of the pond and the sandy waste opened up is so far no improvement over the wooded hills that formerly lined the banks. The dirt taken away is used for filling in the low land on the other side of the boulevard, which is thus made valuable. It is hoped that the pond will be flooded early this summer, as at present the exposed bed is not attractive to say the least. To make the east side desirable for building lots looks like a pretty big undertaking, if it is proposed to level off all the high land.

—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Johnson will soon occupy their new cottage at Hough's Neck.

—Mr. W. B. Wolcott has removed to 35 Hartford street, Boston, where he will be glad to see his old patrons. He is prepared to give estimates for plumbing and house drainage in any part of Newton.

—The Newton Ma-onic Fraternity entertained nearly 200 lady guests in Temple hall last evening. As a social success it equaled any like affair ever given under the Fraternity's auspices. Shortly after 8 o'clock the exercises began with an address of welcome, delivered by Mr. W. S. Slocum, after which the following entertainment program furnished amusement for the evening: Organ music, E. D. Hale; quartet singing, Mrs. French, Miss Davis, Miss Martin and Miss Coolidge; cornet solo, little Helen Apollonio; duet, Victoria Curtis and Alicia Johnson; violin solo, Mr. William Howard, and vocal solo, Dr. E. L. Jordan. At the conclusion of this part of the entertainment the entire company joined in singing "America." Dance music followed, lasting until 11.30. The committee on arrangements included F. L. —The Boston fruit and flower mission to the hospitals, schools, homes, and sick poor in Boston, opened its 29th season on May 11th. As in other years contributions of flowers, fruit, berries, lettuce, eggs, are asked for and may be left at the station on Tuesday and Friday mornings throughout the summer, before 8.45 train if possible, before nine o'clock at latest. Any one interested will be welcome at 11 Appleton street, Boston, on such mornings.

—"Remember the Maine—to hell with Spain," painted in huge letters on the steps and sidewalks of the residence of Mr. Percival Howes on Berkeley street, was the sight which greeted the early passersby Tuesday morning. In addition to the trees and shrubs surrounding the house were bright with a multitude of flags, while about the lawn and grounds were strewn tissue paper representations of the national colors. Although on first sight one was led to think that there had been an intense burst of patriotism from within, the contrary is stated to be the case, as the work was that of Mr. Howes' neighbors to show their disapprobation of his expressions of sympathy with Spain.

—Miss Grace M. Woodward of Otis street was badly injured Wednesday morning in a runaway accident near the railroad station. She was driving down Chestnut street hill in a light carriage and pair of horses. When about half way down the hill, part of the harness gave way. In spite of the efforts of the coachman the horses dashed down the hill at a terrific pace. When Margin street was reached the frightened animals turned the corner, breaking the pole and pitching Miss Woodward some 15 feet. Further along the street the coachman was also thrown out, after which the animals were captured. Patrolman Quilty had Miss Woodward removed to police headquarters in a hack. She was attended by Dr. Curtis, and afterward removed to her home in the police

—Rev. T. P. Prudden delivered a short sermon Sunday evening at the vesper service of the Young People's Society of Christ and Church, at 7 o'clock. The denomination has accomplished.

—B. A. Reed, a young man living in Boston, fell from his bicycle on Washington street, near the head of Waltham, about noon yesterday. He was picked up and removed to a drug store where it was found that he was but little injured.

The catering department has been doing a splendid business of late and a special for ice cream given this week called for 200 quarts. The arrivals show that this spring the hotel will be more popular than ever.

—The residence of Capt. Frank Barnes on Otis street was the scene of a pretty wedding at noon Wednesday. The contracting parties were Miss Mabel E. Thorpe, daughter of Mrs. J. H. Thorpe, and Major H. P. Ballard of Malden. Capt. Locke of Malden was best man and Miss Alice Thorpe, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Miss Thorpe was well known in the social circles of Newton, and the groom is a prominent business man of Malden. About fifty guests were present at the wedding breakfast, including only the intimate friends and relatives of the happy couple.

—A number of prominent business and society people from Malden attended the ceremony. The bride was gown in pale blue silk with white lace and pearl trimmings, and carried a large bouquet. She wore a handsome diamond brooch, a gift from the groom. The maid of honor wore mousseline de soie over cherry silk and carried May flowers. Major Ballard holds his office in the 5th Massachusetts regiment and goes into camp in Monday. Major and Mrs. Ballard will reside in Malden.

A party of the students attended Grace church, Newton, on Sunday morning.

—The specials gave a reception to their friends on the evening of May 6. Mrs. Jones and two of the young ladies receiving. There were refreshments at 9 o'clock in the dining room. It was altogether a very pleasant occasion.

The intermediate class in piano gave on Wednesday evening, under the direction of Prof. Jos. A. Hills of that department, an enjoyable concert.

On the afternoon of the same day the pupils of Miss Cutting, instructor in dress-making, gave an exhibition of their work in this line. Several very nicely made and well-fitted dresses, tasteful and pretty, demonstrated at once the ability of the instructing parties and the skill attained by these bright young women, and was on the whole, a very good advertisement of what Lasell does in this direction.

Athletics at Riverside.

The Boston Physical Education Society have arrangements for classes on Saturday afternoons in June, athletic games, especially swimming and water polo, under the society's auspices at Riverside. A basket ball match among the ladies will be a feature. Evidently Riverside will be a great centre for athletic sports this season.

A sign which was productive of much discussion was read by the patrons of a small laundry establishment in a Massachusetts town. It was printed in large letters, on a piece of brown paper, and pinned to the door of the shop. It ran thus: "Closed on account of sickness till next Monday, or possibly Wednesday. I am on your table, Mrs. McKinley." The answer was somewhat unexpected. "I do if I want to," said the mistress of the White House.

Mrs. McKinley at a reception of the delegates to the mothers' congress in Washington was greeted by one woman, with the impudent remark: "I hope you don't use me on your table, Mrs. McKinley." The answer was somewhat unexpected. "I do if I want to," said the mistress of the White House.

A HOMELY SERMON.

Fine old world, my brother!
Try to be content
Even when we can't find out
The way that leads to rent.
Fine old world, my brother!
Try to be content.

Fine old world, my brother,
Spite o' all its night!
If you see the moon's skies,
Thank God for the light!
Fine old world, my brother,
Spite o' all its night!

Talk about its sorrows,
All its hopes and fears—Lots o' things about it yet
All too sweet for tears!
Sweet for all its sorrows,
All its cares and fears.

Lookin' for the sunshine
To stream across the hills,
Listen for the music
In the ripple of the hills,
An' hope that the love o' God
Each day with blessing fills!

A QUEEN IN RAGS.

"Hoop la!"

Crack went the circus master's whip as the girl's flying figure went through the last tinsel covered circle, higher even than the preceding ones, and alighted safely in the saddle amid rounds of rough applause.

One solitary figure occupied the "dress" seats—a tall, dark man, with bronzed face and keen eyes—and to this one upper class patron was the cream of the entertainment directed.

As the girl rode round before her exit she made the usual feat of blowing a kiss to the stranger, but the circus master's jealous eye noted that a deep flush dyed her forehead. He also noted that the same solitary figure was there for the third night in succession—was there alone—and that as soon as Queen Camilla left the ring he got up, collected stick, hat and gloves and departed.

"He's a fish out of water," muttered the man to himself. "What's he doing here, I wonder? If he's got an eye upon Camilla, he'll soon find as how others 'as got an eye upon him."

And that night, after a frugal but somewhat noisy supper, the ringmaster sought out a fat, elderly woman, always strongly redolent of gin, but who, in spite of that and other little deficiencies, was called by courtesy the wardrobe mistress. The manager—for in Leo Salter's circus the manager, owner, director and ringmaster were rolled in one—came upon this lady as she was folding away Camilla's glittering robes.

"Look here!" he began roughly. "Have you heard anything about the gent that's been hangin' around?"

"Course I have," muttered the woman sulkily. "Who 'asn't? He's the new squire, just come home from Australia."

"And what's he doin' here?"

"Come to see Salter's circus, I suppose," she replied. "Leastways he pays money like the rest."

"There was silence save for the tinkling of baubles as she folded the costumes. Then the man seized her by the arm.

"You ain't been splittin'!" he hissed. "If you have, Meg Hudson, it'll be the worse for you."

"D'you think I want to get rid of the girl? D'you think I don't know that the show would soon go to the dogs if it wasn't for Queen Cam? D'you think I don't know that she keeps things goin' both before and behind scenes? Why, there isn't one of the whole company but what loves her and," with a scowling glance, "hates you."

"Well, it's a dangerous neighborhood anyway," said the man, shifting uneasily beneath the glance, "and it's time we was movin' on."

"Aye! As long as the hall stood empty and no one knew where to look for a hell!"

"Hold your tongue for a croaking old fool!" cried the manager angrily, glancing round at the thin wooden partition. "Who knows who might hear you, you old bird of the night? Anyway we'll be movin' on. We can't afford to throw away money, but there's worse might happen if we wait."

And, slamming the door, he went.

At least old Meg thought he had gone, and she muttered to herself:

"No, and you can't afford to be found out neither, my fine master."

The whistle of a cheap cigar and a muttered oath told her that she had been overheard, though she didn't catch the manager's concluding remark.

"I'll find some means of stopping your fong-e, madam. You knew too much and seem like growin' dangerous."

When Ronald King laid his half crown on the grimy sill of the little pay office next night, he was informed that "the reserved seats was all took by a party."

But instead of the turning away in disgust, as the manager hoped, he merely exchanged the coin for a sixpence and passed in among the crowd.

Queen Camilla was to do her high flight tonight, and it was Queen Camilla he went to see. He hadn't waited to analyze the attraction. He simply went because he was attracted. To be sure, entertainment was scarce in the village where he had suddenly been cast, and though he was the owner of a lovely estate and £5,000 a year, there wasn't a more friendly creature than he in existence.

He had been ranching for 14 years in Australia and had been recalled in most unexpected fashion to step into his dead uncle's shoes. The family history was to him a sealed book. His uncle had had children who had died, and that was all he knew.

Queen Cam was later than usual that night, and many watches had been impatiently consulted before she came. The "dress" seats remained empty, and the ringmaster had a frown on his brow. His ruse had failed, and he was 2 shillings poorer for having tried it. One swift glance Camilla gave toward the seat Ronald had occupied; then her eye traveled along the line as if drawn by his steady gaze, and she gave a quick start of recognition.

The master cracked his whip sharply, and the horse began its accustomed amble, but even as it started on its treadmill pace the ringmaster's eye caught the flutter of a loose strap, and he stooped to readjust it. Quick as thought the girl raised her head and looked straight at Ronald King. She was pale that night. There were dark rings round her brilliant eyes, and as she met his glance gravely and steadily for one moment she slowly shook her head. It seemed to him there was supplication in her glance. What did she mean?

Then the buckle of the whip cracked again, and the round began.

"Hoop la!" She seemed to skim through the air more lightly than ever that night, though her face was rigid, and it was with difficulty that she summoned a smile to her lips. She trotted round amid even louder applause than usual, but her little artificial salute—that sham stage kiss—was lacking that night. Perhaps Queen Cam had forgotten.

At the entrance she was met by Meg Hudson.

"Come away, my lamb!" said the old woman, folding the girl in her arms as she slipped from her saddle. "I've got a nice bowl of milk for your supper; then you can go straight to your bed. You shall have no more harsh words tonight—no, nor any other night—from that old tartar, if I can help it."

A flaming placard on the boardings next day announced a specially attractive programme for the last night at Braxton. Just before night came the circus tent was struck, the caravans were packed, and the traveling company had fled in sudden panic.

Old Meg had been ailing for two or three days. No amount of warm gin had succeeded in banishing the shivering which took possession of her, and that morning she was seriously ill, and no doctor was needed to pronounce the terrible word "smallpox." Old Meg was left deserted in the small caravan where she lay. The wardrobes fortunately were not in the same caravan, and Leo Salter's circus company took a rapid flight to the nearest town.

Queen Cam had begged hard to stay behind, but the manager wouldn't hear of it, so, weeping and reluctant, she took her place. She would be required for the parade, and besides, if she got smallpox and lost her beauty her career would be ended. An old woman more or less didn't matter, and secretly the manager rejoiced that a sure and certain means was at hand of silencing Meg's tongue forever. She was the only one who knew the dreaded secret.

It was 18 years now since Jack Forrest, the handsome young riding master, had run away with the only daughter of the squire of Braxton. The squire had never noticed his daughter since, and when Jack broke his neck over a gigantic hurdle in view of a crowd the shock killed his young wife, who left behind her in old Meg's charge a few valuable jewels, her marriage lines and a tiny baby girl. Old Meg had stuck to those treasures fiercely through thick and thin, but she secretly would die with her. Camilla's identity would remain unknown and the manager would take possession of the girl's soul and body.

There was a hue and cry in the camp next morning, for the queen was missing. Her rough bed had not been slept in, but all her tawdry robes and finery were there. She must have gone away in the earliest rags. Of course they knew where she had gone, for Cam knew no such thing as fear, and the manager swore loudly that some one must go at once and fetch her. But there was the smallpox—that was a greater terror than the manager's wrath.

Ronald King never once hunted by the supposition of those beautiful eyes. He hurried over an important engagement next day to go to the last performance, but reached the place only to find that the Arabs had folded their tents and silently stolen away. One solitary caravan alone marked the spot, and lighting a cigarette, he strolled up to where it stood.

The sound of moaning came from within, and after knocking vainly he opened the door. A miserable sight met his eyes. An old woman—ill, dying, lying on a rough straw pallet—turned a baggard face to the intruder.

Ronald had seen sickness before. Out in the bush any one helped a dying comrade, and soon he had moistened the parched lips, arranged a pillow under the aching head, lighted the swinging lamp and sat down in the miserable hovel, while with eager hands the woman gave a packet into his keeping and told him a story which seemed to the young man only the ravings of delirium. It was vain to seek a doctor and then the nearest one was miles away.

In the morning he should come.

Presently the moaning ceased, and the old woman slept. Then Ronald slipped quietly out, with a strange thankfulness at heart that it was not the beautiful Queen Camilla who had fallen a victim to this terrible scourge.

With morning light he was back again, but paused on the rickety steps of the caravan at the sight that met his eyes, and in the moment his heart went out from his keeping.

Seated on the floor in Cinderella garb of brown rags, the woman's head in her lap, was the girl he loved. What matter that she was a circus rider, a girl of the people—that she was shorn of her pomp and glitter? Though she were the very scum of the earth, he loved her. She was his queen—a queen in rags!

One glance told him old Meg was dead, and gently he relieved the girl of her burden.

"You must come with me," he said, looking into her beautiful eyes. "You can do no more for her. She is dead."

"She was the only friend I had. Oh, what shall I do without her?" sobbed Cam. "I have no home. It is all a strange, dark mystery. I do not even know my own name."

Then it flashed across Ronald that those peepers, that rambling talk, had not been delirium after all.

"So you are really my cousin? It is you who must reign here and not I."

"And what shall you do?"

"I? He met her gaze steadily. Never now must I shall you know that her name was Meg Hudson."

"There is room enough for us both here, Ron. But if you must go—shyly—you will take me with you?"

Then she was in his arms.—Answers.

Efforts to Save Maximilian.

In The Century is printed "The Fall of Maximilian," the final paper in Mrs. Cornelius Stevenson's series of reminiscences of the French intervention in Mexico. Mrs. Stevenson says of the sentencing of the unhappy Austrian prince:

Brought up for trial on June 13 before a military tribunal, which held its court on the stage of a public theater, he was ably defended by Mexico's foremost lawyers, Messrs. Mariano Riva-Palacio, Martinez de la Torre, Eulalio Ortega and Jesus Maria Vazquez, but his doom was already sealed.

On June 14, at 11 o'clock at night, he was sentenced to death.

Every effort was made by his lawyers and by the foreign representatives whom he had summoned to his side to obtain from the republican government a mitigation of the sentence. The queen of England and the government of the United States begged for mercy. Baron Magnus, Baron Lago and M. de Hoerick, in the names of the European monarchs allied to the prince by ties of relationship, moved heaven and earth to influence the president. Princess Salm-Salm cleverly used every means in a woman's power to accomplish the same end. In vain.

President Juarez could well afford to be magnanimous, but under the existing social conditions in Mexico who, knowing all the facts, could blame if stern justice was allowed to take its course?

WOMAN'S SPHERE

It is Deplorable That Some Women Do Not Want the Ballot.

Mr. J. M. Robertson, of England, said, at the recent annual meeting of the Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association:

It is said that the suffrage is outside the natural sphere of women. But the supposed sphere of women has always been changing, and will go on enlarging to the end of time. This argument has historically broken down; indeed, its whole existence is a perpetual process of breaking down. Look a few hundred years back, Milton like others of his time, thought it improper for women to learn Greek and Latin; so when he became blind and wanted his daughters to read to him in the tongues they were unable to understand, they found it an intolerable burden. It was so when women began to share in the arts. When it was first suggested that women's parts in the drama should be played by women, all the decent, grave people said it was intolerable; the only decent thing was to have women's parts played by boys with squeaking voices. Shakespeare makes Cleopatra speak of hearing

"Some squeaking Cleopatra boy my greatness."

Women have now shown that they have as much capacity for the stage as men. So when women began to write novels and poetry, and paint pictures, at every step there was something equivalent to petitions and remonstrances, signed or unsigned. Two hundred years back, nobody thought of a girl's playing the piano. Now, so irrational is fashion, every girl is expected to learn, whether she has any musical talent or not. The small things that Mary Wollstonecraft asked for women were denied as obstinately and vehemently as the vote is now. She had to argue seriously with those who thought it degrading for women to be improper for women. I remember when the chivalrous and pure-minded medical students of Edinburgh (and I know by experience what they were) would not have a woman studying medicine, because it offended their notions of decency.

Lord Russell got the name of "Finality Jack," because whenever any measure of reform was adopted, he always insisted, "Now, this is the last; we don't want to tamper with the Constitution any more." At last even the Conservatives began to laugh at him. Some people are playing "Finality Jack" here to-day.

It is said that women ought not to vote until politics have been purified. But politics will not be reformed by leaving them where they are. We must take them and purify them.

It is said that the vote of ignorant women would be a danger. We ought to cease to have ignorant women; but at least do not make them an excuse for denying the ballot to the thousands of women who would be the first buttress against the dangerous classes even from the conservative standpoint.

This is, if not the greatest, certainly one of the greatest of emancipatory causes. The ancients said that inequality has been the ruin of State in all ages. The only equality possible is equal opportunity for all to develop whatever faculties they may possess. Look at the subject broadly. Do not raise all these little questions of how the Italian women would vote, and how the Irish women would vote, and the Germans but ask yourselves, "Do we give women equal opportunity in all respects to develop what ever faculties they may possess?" Taken as a whole, the exercise of political power is an elevating influence of the mass of men; there is nothing more sexual about it than there is about botany or mathematics. To deny women the vote is to deny them a great force for self-development. It is a wrong that some women should seek to deny the ballot to others, and it is deplorable that they do not want it for themselves.

Humors of Anti-Suffrage.

Under the heading "Humors of Anti-Suffrage," the Chicago Post makes a little mild fun of the manifesto lately issued by the Illinois Association Opposed to the Extension of Suffrage to Women. It is especially amused by the somewhat startling assertion of Madeline Vinton Dahlgren:

"No more patriotic work can be done for the country than to arrest the movement for female suffrage, which was formed amidst the communistic revolutions and socialistic agitation of 1848, and is intended to weaken the marriage tie and destroy the sacredness of home life."

The Chicago Post says:

"This kind of statement is quite usual among people knowing no difference between communism and socialism. Their convincing logic runs like this: Some socialistic clubs endorsed woman suffrage; therefore all socialists are suffragists and conversely, all suffragists are socialists, argue all suffragists are communists, nihilists, anarchists, dynamiters. See them way the red flag! Call out the police and fire department and the militia. Seize Dr. Stevenson, Miss Addams, Rev. Cella Woolley, Rev. Anna Shaw, Mrs. Frank Stewart Parker and other fell destroyers of our homes, ere they put the torch to the city!"

We might also cry, "Seize Mrs. Juff Ward Howe, Mrs. Mary A. Livermore, Mrs. Quincy A. Shaw, Mrs. Alice Freeman Palmer and the fearful and dangerous characters." If the anti-suffragists said that the result of woman suffrage would be to weaken the marriage tie and destroy the sacredness of home life, the statement might be made in good faith by those who believe so; but when they say that the movement "is intended" to produce these results, considering the character of most of the women who are advocating it, the assertion is preposterous, not to say libellous. The Post goes on to call attention to the grammatical errors in the pamphlet, and especially in the letter of congratulation from Massachusetts, and asks, "What is there about anti-suffrage that destroys the reasoning faculties and is inimical to the first principles of grammar?"—Woman's Journal.

FROM FOOT TO KNEE

Ohio Woman Suffered Great Agony From a Terrible Sore—Her Story of the Cause, and Her Cure.

"For many years I was afflicted with a milk leg, and a few years ago it broke out in a sore and spread from my foot to my knee. I suffered great agony. It would burn and itch all the time and discharge a great deal. My health was good with the exception of this sore. I tried a great many kinds of salve, but some would irritate the sore so that I could hardly stand the pain. I could not go near the fire without suffering intensely. Some one sent me papers containing testimonials of cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I told my husband I would like to try this medicine. He got me a bottle and I found it helped me. I kept on taking it until my limb was completely healed. I cannot praise Hood's Sarsaparilla enough for the great benefit it has been to me. It cleanses the blood of all impurities and leaves it rich and pure." MRS. ANNA E. EAKEN, Whitlsey, Ohio.

You can buy Hood's Sarsaparilla of all druggists. Be sure to get only Hood's.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

TREMONT THEATRE.—The Broadway Theatre Comie Opera Company from New York will make its first appearance at the Tremont Theatre on Monday, May 16, in Reginald de Koven and Harry B. Smith's latest and greatest success, "The Highwayman." This organization has been presenting the opera at the Broadway in New York for the past five months, to the capacity of that spacious theatre, and might have continued there far into the summer had not other engagements, that could not be thought of or cancelled, obliged it to leave.

The opera, which is universally acknowledged to rank even above the same composer and librettist's earlier and phenomenally popular work, "Robin Hood," has a cleverly devised and consistent plot, which hinges on a mistake of identity. The Broadway company is the strongest and most expensive organization now presenting comic opera, its membership including such well known artists as Miss Camille D'Arville, Joseph O'Mara, Jennie Sykes, Nellie Bragins, Van Rensselaer Wheeler, Maud Williams, Harry McDonough, Marion Chase, Reginald Roberts, Jeanne St. Clair, George O'Donnell, William Corliss and others. The company numbers eighty people, including a chorus of sixty well-trained voices, under the directorship of Signor A. De Novellis. Two car-loads of scenery will be brought to Boston to present the opera in a perfect manner. The orchestra will be augmented, and every detail will be looked after to give the production the success it so well deserves. The engagement at the Tremont is for two weeks only. Saturday and Sunday, and no advance will be made in the regular prices of the theatre.

High School Notes.

Tuesday evening in Temple hall a large audience witnessed the reproduction of "None So Deaf As Those Who Won't Hear" and "The Cool Collegians" given by the same cast who presented them in April. The performance moved with remarkable smoothness, save for the incident of the flicker electric light, which however was soon forgotten when the play was resumed. The entertainment committee included Charles E. L. Clark, business manager, George W. Pratt, assistant business manager, Benjamin S. Stevens, stage manager, and Porter E. Brown, musical director.

A Man Who Is Tired

All the time, owing to impoverished blood, should take Hood's Sarsaparilla to purify and enrich his blood and give him vitality and vigor.

This condition of weakness and lack of energy is a natural consequence of the coming of warmer weather, which finds the system debilitated and the blood impure.

A good spring medicine is a necessity with almost everyone. Hood's Sarsaparilla is what the millions take in the spring. Its great power to purify and enrich the blood and build up health is one of the facts of common experience.

"Just as Good"

as Scott's and we sell it much cheaper," is a statement sometimes made by the druggist when Scott's Emulsion is called for. This shows that the druggists themselves regard of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda as the standard, and the purchaser who desires to procure the "standard" because he knows it has been of untold benefit, should not for one instant think of taking the risk of using some untried preparation.

The substitution of something said to be "just as good" for a standard preparation twenty-five years on the market, should not be permitted by the intelligent purchaser.

Be sure you get SCOTT'S Emulsion. See that the man and fish are on the wrapper.

Are Your Friends Worth Saving? If so, Why Let Them Die and Make No Effort to Save Them.

An advertisement appeared in a Saratoga Springs, N. Y., paper over a year ago, to ascertain if any one had been afflicted with typhoid fever where the Saratoga Lincoln Spring Water had been used, and not a case was reported.

The City of Boston is reported as being unusually healthy. Go and ask the leading citizens why, and a large majority of them will tell you that the Lincoln Spring Water from Saratoga, had been freely drank there for nearly a year and that thousands of her people have been entirely cured, or greatly helped.

Ask 1,000 physicians if they were right a year ago, but times have changed since then. The only known remedy for Diabetes is Lincoln Spring Water from Saratoga. If you do not believe it, take the first train and go to Winchester, Mass., and ask Alexis Cutting what he thinks about it, and he will tell you he doesn't think anything about it, but that he knows it has cured him. Mr. Cutting is seventy years old, and is to-day the happiest man in the State. Read his testimony below:

TO THE LINCOLN SPRING CO.: WINCHESTER, MASS., Sept. 11, 1897.

I wish to add my name to the list of your testimonials, and as a patron, to the most wonderful mineral water of the age. For twenty years I have been afflicted with Diabetes. At times it so exhausted me that I was hardly able to walk about. I have been obliged during these years to get up from eight to ten times a night. I tried all sorts of remedies, but received no help until Aug. 21, 1897, when I bought from you my first case of Lincoln Spring Water. I had not drank the water but a short time before I could see a general improvement in my health. I have now used three cases of the water, and find no difficulty in sleeping throughout the whole night without getting up once. It gives me great pleasure to attend to my business, as my renewed health gives me strength and happiness. I would not be without the water if I cost me $5 a case. Respectfully yours, ALEXIS CUTTING.

Ask Mr. Henry A. Smith, an Insurance man, what he knows: Read his testimony below:

LINCOLN SPRING CO., 47 Cornhill, Boston. STONEHAM, MASS., Jan. 26, 1898.

Gentlemen:—About the first of August, 1897, I met my friend Mr. Alex. Cutting of Winchester (an old acquaintance), and invited him to have a glass of Saratoga Lincoln Spring Water at my parlors, 47 Cornhill. I had drank of the water frequently, only because it was delicious and exhilarating. On my return from vacation I was informed that Mr. Cutting had called at my office (room 41, Exchange Building), and knowing I had been troubled with diabetes urged my daughter not to fail to have me order a case of the water, as he had been cured of that terrible disease by its liberal use. From such testimony I was induced to order a supply, and after drinking the water freely for a time noticed a perceptible change for the better. After drinking about four cases of the water, I was examined for life insurance by a company's physician, and physically pronounced a good risk. The principal sign of diabetes (a sugar in the urine) was entirely eliminated therefrom; not a trace could be found by the most careful test. Previous to using the water I had a tired feeling and my limbs ached from walking, but now I can take much longer walks with very little fatigue. I must say that I am pleased with the beneficial effects of the water, and have been delighted in recommending it to friends who were in any way afflicted with the symptoms of diabetes or loss of energy and vitality. I am very thankful that I saw your sign on Cornhill, and was attracted to it from the fact that I had been in Saratoga and drank from her springs. I found the Lincoln water sparkling, bright and a delicious beverage, and thus have been led to know of its health-giving properties. Very respectfully yours, HENRY A. SMITH.

If you cannot go and see these men, write to the New England Depot, 47 Cornhill, Boston, for circulars telling what has been done in a few cases, and then decide what you think about it. This is the greatest discovery made in this country, leaving

THE NEW NEWTON BANK BUILDING.

THE NEW BANK BUILDING.

WILL BE OCCUPIED BY THE TWO BANKS
NEXT MONDAY—CONTAINS ALL THE LATEST SAFETY APPLIANCES AND CON-VENIENCES, INCLUDING THE HOLMES
SYSTEM OF ELECTRIC PROTECTION.

The handsome building erected by the Newton National and the Newton Savings Bank is now completed and tomorrow the two corporations will move in.

The building is a model of its kind, and has been built in the most thorough manner, all the latest devices for securing absolute safety for bank funds having been secured. The outside has a granite foundation, with cream colored brick and terra cotta trimmings for the upper stories, and from its commanding position is the most noticeable building in Newton. It is divided into two sections by a heavy brick wall, the easterly portion being owned by the Newton National Bank, and the westerly by the Newton Savings Bank.

The entrances are on the north side and are three in number, one for the Savings Bank, one for the stairway leading to the upper story and one for the National Bank. They are all set in under a wide arch, so that they are sheltered from the weather.

The Savings Bank quarters are entered through massive mahogany doors, with elaborate iron grill work protecting them;
these open on a vestibule and another pair of doors open into the banking rooms.
The space for the public is some 18,500 feet, which will give ample room for de-positors. The floor is laid in mosaic, and like all the floors on the first story is fire proof. The walls are tinted a light olive green, and have a handsome cornice and wide mahogany molding, and the space for the officers and clerks is divided off by a tall bronze metal grill work, with the requisite openings for depositors. Heavy plate glass line the different openings, and those for the reception of deposits are protected by plate glass behind the grill work. All the desks and woodwork in the room are of mahogany. In front is the trustees room, fitted up with table and chairs of mahogany, and the regular bankers turkey red carpet.

The hours in the new bank will be from 9 to 3, except on Saturdays, when the bank will close at 1 o'clock.

The vault is a marvel of ingenuity, and intending burglars would have to drill through about a foot of solid steel. The outer door opens by a combination lock, and the inner one by a time lock, and both are ponderous affairs, with the latest safety locks. Then there is the day gate inside of these, of heavy bronzed steel bars. The vault is sufficiently spacious for all the needs of the bank for the years to come, and is fitted up with all conveniences for the filing of documents and papers. Above this is another vault, reached by a winding stairway, for the storage of old account and bank books, and other documents not in use.

Back of the vault is the toilet room, through which a door connects with the National Bank. All though the Savings Bank is an elaborate system of electric buttons, both for the hand and foot, controlling the door, and with the police station. Two fireplaces help to ventilate the room, one white marble in the public part, and one of mahogany with a gas back-log, behind the railing.

Back of the vault is the directors' room, fitted up with table and chairs of mahogany,
and the regular bankers turkey red carpet.

The trustees' room of the Savings bank, being made and given by Mr. Henry F. Ross, the contractor for the building.

Over the two doors leading to the directors' room are stained glass portraits, one of Mr. Joseph N. Bacon and the other of Mr.
William Jackson, former presidents of the bank.

The National Bank has a spacious basement, with a large storage vault and two strong rooms, which will be needed as the demand for storage of valuables in parcels, boxes, and trunks, increases with the growth of the city. Double fire proof doors shut off the rear passageway between the two banks, and there are heavy steel doors between the two vaults, which could be opened in case the locks of the outer doors of either vault got out of order.

Above the banking rooms are fourteen rooms of good size, furnished in antique oak, and most of which have connecting doors, which will be leased for offices.

The building is heated by hot water, both direct and indirect radiation being used, and each bank has its separate plant. Both gas and electricity are used for lighting.

It will be something of a change from the old and rather primitive building that has been occupied for so many years, and which was long ago outgrown, so that work had to be done at a great disadvantage. But the management was conservative and waited until they were abundantly able to change to more modern quarters.

The architect of the building was Mr.
Wm. Gibbons Preston, and the builder Mr.
Henry F. Ross of Newton, John Farquhar's sons did the roof tile work, Hewitt & Thomas of Newton the plumbing and A. B. Franklin Co. of Boston furnished the heating apparatus. The fire proof vaults were put in by the Mosler Safe Co.
The Winslow Bros. Co. of Chicago did the grill work for the Savings Bank, and the Sneed Co. of Louisville the grill work of the National Bank. The marble work was done by Bowker & Torrey of Boston, the tile work by the Boston Mosaic Co., electric work by C. W. Richards, gas fixtures Mononey & Waterbury, M. H. Hussey of Newton furnished the window shades, and
J. M. Briggs did the painting. Simpson Bros. of Newton did the granolithic work, and the furniture was built by the Henry F.
Ross Co., Melish, Byfield & Co. and others.

The Newton National bank was organized 50 years ago this fall, and the Savings bank in 1831.

The Newton Centre Village Improvement Society asked permission to construct an open-air gymnasium on the playground at Newton Centre. Granted.

Jonathan A. Lane, representing the Newton Land & Improvement Co., asked that a drain be constructed on Homer street. Referred to the highway committee.

A resolution from the Waverly Improvement Society of Newton was presented by Alderman Hobart, setting forth that in the opinion of the society the board of aldermen should make no further disbursements of the public funds until provision should be made for the construction of a 12 room school house in Newton.

Six petitions for junk, band, and similar licenses. Referred to the license committee.

A. H. Wiggin and others asked that a gravel sidewalk be constructed on Bourne street, Ward Four. Referred to the highway committee.

Petitions for sewers and extensions of S. P. Staples on Somerset road, E. James and others on a new unnamed street, P. Martin, Derby street, were referred to the sewer committee.

E. P. May petitioned for a gravel sidewalk on Gibbs street, S. M. Jackson and others for gravel sidewalk on Greenwood street, and were referred to the highway committee.

Petitions for concrete crossings on Temple and Albany streets, and Commonwealth avenue, were referred to the highway committee.

Messrs. Russell and Russell notified the board of aldermen of the improper drainage of certain land off Centre street, owned by them. Referred to the highway committee.

ROUTINE REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

The highway committee recommended that the petition for concrete sidewalks around the Mason and Rice schools at Newton Centre be referred to the public property committee. Accepted.

The same committee reported favorable to the construction of concrete sidewalks on Chestnut street, Ward 3, Church street, Ward 7, Elmwood street, Ward 7, Commonwealth avenue, Ward 6, Willard street, Ward 7, Beacon street, Ward 6, Lake avenue, Wards 5 and 6. Also favorable to the construction of gravel sidewalks on Erie avenue, Ward 5, Griffin avenue, Ward 5, and crosswalks on Parker street at Glenwood avenue, Ward 6, Ellis street, opposite the Baptist church, Ward 5, Vernon street at Elmwood street, Ward 7.

The highway committee also favored the construction of catch-basins on Nevada street and Churchill avenue, Ward 2, favorable to repairs on California street, Ward 1, and recommending street watering on a portion of Temple street, Ward 5.

The committee on the journal reported recommending approval of records for May 2, 1918; the license committee recommending granting of licenses, as follows: Evans & Barnard, 245 Washington street, Ward 7, common victualer; D. Salem, 273 Washington street, Ward 7, common victualer; W. A. Prinos, Langley road, Ward 6, liquor, sixth class; C. W. Kinder, 7 Watertown street, Ward 2, liquor, sixth class; Peter Wenz, street musician; Nellie L. Doherty, 363 Washington street, Ward 1, intelligence office; Simon Canter, junk; Patrick Cruise, Waban, 1 carriage and 1 wagon; Arthur Gibson, Ward 1, 2 wagons; P. H. Dorgan, 259 Washington street, Ward 7, 2 pool tables and 4 bowling alleys, and Geo. A. Bender, Elliot street, Ward 5, 1 combination table. Also recommending leave to withdraw on petitions for licenses of G. Valente, 955 Chestnut street, Ward 5, common victualer; Dora Wingersky, Beacon and Walnut streets, Ward 6, common victualer; Mary A. Barthelme, West street, Ward 2, innholder; Michael Hughes, junk.

The sewer committee reported favorable to sewer construction in Norwood avenue, Ward 6; recommending appropriation of $700 for settlement with Newton cemetery corporation; recommending leave to withdraw on petitions for sewers in Cedar street, Commonwealth avenue, and off Langley road.

The committee on street railways reported recommending leave to withdraw on petition of Newton & Boston street railway company for second track on Walnut street, between Mill and Homer streets; relative to petition of Wellesley & Boston street railway company for crossover in Nottun square.

The select committee on death of Hon. J. F. C. Hyde presented resolutions which were unanimously adopted.

In regard to the construction of sewers on Farlow Hill, Newton, the sewer committee reported favorably, and its report was accepted.

A communication was received from the building commissioner notifying the board that James Ford had asked permission to construct a building for offices, stores and tenements, corner of Lexington street and Commonwealth avenue, Abundant.

Alderman Hunt moved that this permission be granted Mr. Ford.

Alderman Knowlton said the petition was an old one. It was an effort to evade the ordinances. It had been before other city governments, and the last time it was granted under certain conditions which Mr. Ford did not see fit to accept. The matter of building construction on the new boulevard was brought to the board's attention, and it was thought best to frame an ordinance that might govern the construction of buildings on the new thoroughfare. Such a junction of streets, where it was proposed to locate the building, is destined to be a principal square, and a favorable addition to the city. If the ordinance which was adopted had any application whatever, it was right there. If unwise, it should be rescinded altogether. A year ago Mr. Ford, in applying for this permission to build, presented a plan of the building, providing he removes the blacksmith shop. Alderman Hunt thought it unwise to "take on" such conditions as those. The building Mr. Ford would erect would be of first class style, and a favorable addition to the buildings in that part of the city. He saw no reason why the permit should not go through.

Alderman Bailey, who was a member of the license committee last year, recalled his experience in investigating the same matter at that time. There are seventeen members of the board, said the alderman, who were not with us last year when the matter came up, and they should be perfectly conversant with the facts before taking such action. The blacksmith shop Mr. Ford would probably never remove unless compelled in this way. If he was unwilling to concede anything to the city, the city should show him no special favor as the granting of this petition without any like provision would be.

The matter was referred to the license committee.

REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE ON WAGES OF COMMON LABORERS.

The select committee, consisting of a member from each ward, to which was referred the petition of ex-Mayor J. Wesley Kimball, ex-Mayor Henry E. Bothfeld, ex-Councilman Mitchell Henry, William H. Baker, E. J. Twenty-five city laborers and others, in all two hundred and nine citizens, for the increase of the wages of the common laborers of the city to two dollars per day, after a careful consideration of the same, herewith submits its report as follows:

The prayer of the petition is in these words:

"We, the undersigned citizens and taxpayers of the city of Newton, do hereby respectfully represent that the wages of the common laborers working for the city shall be increased to the sum of two dollars ($2.00) per day, the same as is paid in neighboring cities of the Commonwealth."

In the opinion of the select committee, its first duty was to ascertain the exact scope of the petition, the classes of laborers to which it was applicable, their number and present wages, and the increase in wages that a granting of the petition would impose upon the city.

In respect of the classes of laborers to which the petition was applicable, these questions arose:

1. Was the petition applicable to common laborers, who, being unable to do a full day's work, were still kept in the employ of the city at the rate of $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50 per day out of recognition for prior faithful service?

2. Was it applicable to the street department, highway and sewer division, and the water department, or to the street department, highway division alone?

3. Was it applicable to a common laborer, able-bodied, receiving $1.50 per day?

4. Did it contemplate a raising of the wages of teamsters (single teams) from $2.00, the existing rate to $2.25, and of teamsters (double teams) from $2.25 (the existing rate), to $2.50?

The committee found no difficulty in answering questions (1) and (2), and in the judgment of the committee, the petition does not refer to the class of laborers specified in question (1)—those not receiving the compensation of able-bodied laborers—while on the other hand it does refer to laborers in the street department, sewer division and water department, as well as to those in the street department, highway division.

With reference to question (3), whether the petition applies to common laborers, able-bodied, receiving $1.50 per day, the committee experienced more difficulty.

This class of laborers is wholly in the street department, sewer division, and water department, and is composed largely, if not chiefly of Italians, and, if not falling into the same class as the $1.75 per day laborers, still constitutes a class of common laborers, and falls within the letter, if not the spirit, of the petition.

tion. So much so, that, in the opinion of the committee, it would be wholly unjust, if the wages of such class were left at $1.50 per day, while the wages of other common laborers now receiving $1.75 per day were increased to $2.00.

As regards question (4), the committee believes that it would not be practicable to undertake to increase the wages of the $1.75 men to $2.00 without making a corresponding increase of the wages of the $2.00 men to $2.25, and those of the $2.25 men to $2.50. The $2.00 and $2.25 men, like the $1.75 men, are common laborers, but receive more on account of the extra service that they render to the city. They are teamsters, and are paid $2.00 and $2.25 accordingly as they have charge of one or two horses. They are employed in the street department, highway division, and in the water department, but not in the street department, sewer division. They also have somewhat more regular employment than the $1.75 men, not being laid off on account of the weather, or because of the season of the year, though taking care of their horses on Sundays and holidays without pay. They would undoubtedly receive an advance of 25 cents per day, while they received none. The committee, therefore, has assumed that a granting of the petition would necessitate a raising of the wages of the $2.00 and $2.25 men respectively.

Having thus established the evident scope of the petition, the committee proceeded to an estimate of the probable extra cost of the granting thereof to the city.

There was the difficulty which always attaches to the measurement of a fluctuating body, but after a series of most careful tests, the committee arrived at the following results with little or no hesitation, believing the same to be founded upon a most conservative basis and an understatement rather than an overstatement of fact.

INCREASED COST TO THE CITY.

Street Department.
Highway division, $1.75 men ($2.00) $11,244
Sewer division, 1.75 men ($2.00) 3,144
Water department, 1.75 men ($2.00) 1,824
$16,212

Or, including other than $1.75 men, as the committee believes would be necessary:

INCREASED COST TO THE CITY.

Street Department.
Highway division, $1.75 men ($2.00) $11,244
" " 2.00 men ($2.25) 2,184
" " 2.25 men ($2.50) 3,466
Sewer division, 1.75 men ($2.00) 3,144
" " 2.00 men ($2.25) 1,566
Water department, 1.75 men ($2.00) 1,824
" " 2.00 men ($2.25) 941
$21,749

This estimate indicates the additional cost, not the actual cost, and is applicable to routine work of a distinguished character.

On the basis of the above figures, the total annual cost for routine work would be $175,743. The committee have little doubt that this estimate would be exceeded.

The petition gives as the chief ground for its prayer the following:

"The number of days the said laborers are employed are dependent upon the weather and the work to do. So that really work is to be had only about two-thirds of the time, or say 200 days in a year, yielding an income of about $400 per year, with which to support himself and family."

That is to say, at $2.00 per day, it being the assumption by the witnesses on behalf of the laborers, who appeared before the committee, that a laborer in the employ of the city would obtain little or no work for the days that he was laid off. In order to test the accuracy of the above statement, the committee has had the rolls of the street department, highway and sewer division, and water department, which were examined in respect of the wages of an average laborer, with the following results:

It would appear, therefore, that, even at the rate of $1.75 per day, the average common laborer, except in the case of the water department, (where the force is very light), would receive a sum in considerable excess of $400 per year.

The committee has also had prepared a list of the registered common laborers of the city as follows:

REGISTERED COMMON LABORERS.

Laborers in employ of the city 338
Laborers neither certified nor employed 267
Laborers certified but not employed 183

It may here be added that no laborer is entitled to registration under the civil service rules who is not a citizen of the United States, that is, who has not resided in this city for at least five years, or who has not lived in the Commonwealth for at least a year, and in the city for six months.

Married men are given a preference over unmarried men, and veterans of the late war a preference over others.

The registrar of laborers estimates that the services of more than three quarters of the laborers certified, but not employed, and of those neither certified nor employed, on occasion, would be available to the city, and that the list of registered laborers would be much augmented, were it to become the common belief, that there was any opening in the city departments. Thus, under any circumstances, there are a large number waiting to be employed by the city at present rates. These are all citizens, and entitled to the same consideration from the city as its present employees.

One of the petitioners suggested at the bar that the salaries paid to the mayor, treasurer, auditor and city clerk were larger than those paid to the same officers in other cities, while the wages of laborers were less. He drew from this the conclusion that the scale of wages of laborers in Newton ought to be increased, although it was equally open to him upon the facts to infer that the salaries of the city officers ought to be reduced.

The committee, however, is chary of comparisons. Each municipality differs in important respects from every other municipality, and no one is a fit criterion for another.

Watson paid $1.80 to its laborers, and Boston $2.00, and yet there has been no noticeable exodus of laborers from the city either to Watton or Boston. Newton pays substantially the same wages to laborers as a majority of the other cities of the Commonwealth, and more than five of them, while nearly all the present city laborers have been in the employ of the city for a number of years.

Non-citizen employ contract labor more than others: some cities require little or no sewer help; the duties of the same officer are not always the same in all; the population and work to do vary greatly; and a thousand and one other differences that only too readily suggest themselves. Each case, therefore, is to be taken by itself.

The committee, however, believes it important that the city should treat its laborers fairly. It does not believe that the city should attempt to drive the hardest bargain it can, or refuse to pay a living rate of wages. On the other hand, the city should act with discretion, treating all its laborers—those in its employ, and those not impartially, and having care for the interests of the people as a whole rather than of any part thereof. To do this, the city authorities can not entirely disregard the market price of labor. If they are not to get labor at the cheapest rate for which it is offered by citizens, all of whom are entitled to bid for work, and complain of unfair discrimination, they yet can not wholly shut their eyes to the facts, and pay a price far in excess of such rate. To do so would be a violation of their plain obligations, and of the oaths that they have taken to manage the affairs of the city efficiently and honestly, as those of a private corporation. And the committee is further of the opinion that the rates which are at present paid can not under existing circumstances be materially exceeded without injustice to the taxpayers of the city, and a substantial reduction of the amount of municipal work, as compared with that of contract work. In fact, it is generally understood, that certain of the contractors of the city are among the most strenuous advocates of the present petition. Even at present, in the matter of price, they have a distinct advantage over the city employ of non-citizens as well as citizens, at a less rate, and in the instance upon a 10 hour instead of a 9 hour day. This advantage, of course, would become still more marked, if the present petition were successful.

Again, at the present time the finances of the city are in no condition to bear any avoidable extra burden. The debt limit is already practically exhausted, and the tax rate amounts to $18.00 on the $1,000. A large may occur at some time in the future, but the urgent need of the hour is economy.

The committee has come to its present conclusions with reluctance, but still with confidence. If it had only its feelings to consult, it would cheerfully recommend the immediate granting of the petition, but, in light of all the circumstances, it firmly believes that such action at this time is imprudent, and therefore is compelled to recommend to the board, that the petitioners be given leave to withdraw.

Alderman Bailey explained that the report was that of a majority of committee members. There was one dissenting vote, and absent.

A motion to lay the report on the table was made, but not put to vote.

Alderman Briston presented his minority report in which was stated briefly that in his opinion able-bodied laborers of the $1.75 class should be paid $2.

A motion to lay this also on the table was made, but not voted on.

Alderman Briston then asked permission of the chair to interrogate Alderman Bailey. The request being granted he proceeded.

Alderman Briston—Was that report framed at a committee meeting? Alderman Bailey—It was presented by a member of the committee. This gentleman was a member of the sub-committee appointed to prepare the figures. After it had been taken up section by section, and thoroughly considered from end to end, the majority of the committee saw fit to adopt it.

Alderman Briston then inquired of the chair of the special committee, meeting Alderman Bailey, if he could tell whether the report adopted by the committee was that of an individual, and also if there were doubts as to the accuracy of the figures.

Alderman Bailey said that when the committee had first met three men appeared, one a laborer, the other two business men, and asked for a hearing. They were allowed to present their case, and then hearing this the committee thought the best plan was to appoint a sub-committee to ascertain all facts. This sub-committee was composed of Alderman Dana, Nagle, and Briston. Having had the facts presented to them by the sub-committee, the members of the whole committee at the second meeting considered details, and then voted to adopt the present report. As a matter of parliamentary procedure he considered it perfectly proper that the committee should take this action if it saw fit. Having adopted this report one member, the matter becomes the property of the committee, and is a majority report.

Alderman Briston said he differed with Alderman Bailey in regard to those men who appeared at the special committee hearing. One of these was a laborer, and the other a laborer. As to the accuracy of the figures he was still in doubt. He then questioned Alderman Bailey on some points regarding several statements made in the report.

After further discussion on the subject, the reports were placed on file, and the committee discharged.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

The first matter that came up for consideration under the head of unfinished business was the report of the license committee on petition of J. H. McAdams for permission to move a building in Ward 5.

Alderman Ivy moved an amendment to the committee's report, that McAdams be granted the permission. He had investigated the matter, looked over the proposed site of the building, and found it to be a favorable location for other buildings in that locality. He thought the old building would be put in first-class condition by McAdams after it had been removed.

Alderman Whitteley, chairman of the license committee, endorsed Alderman Ivy in his position.

Alderman Lothrop was opposed to the removal of the building. He did not think it a desirable addition to the neighborhood in which it would be placed. He understood it did not cost McAdams anything.

Alderman Ivy stated the facts concerning McAdams' purchase of the building, and he thought should be properly understood.

Alderman Dana said if the assessor could manage to appraise the building sufficiently, to place the assessment at $100, he thought the money well earned. If ever there was a trap in the city this was one. He thought the best interest of the city would be served if the building was left in its present location.

Alderman Hunt said he had conversed with the principal objector, who was willing McAdams should move the building providing he would expend $1000 on it, after it had been placed on the foundation.

TRIALS OF SALESWOMEN.

Mrs. Pinkham Says Standing Still is One of Woman's Most Trying Tasks.

Have you ever thought why it is that so many women or girls rather walk for an hour than stand still for ten minutes?

It is because most women suffer from some derangement of their delicate organism, the discomfort from which is less trying when they are in motion than when standing.

So serious are these troubles and so dangerous to health that the laws in some states compel employers to provide resting places for their female employees.

CITY GOVERNMENT.

CONCLUDED FROM SECOND PAGE.

This Alderman Heymer thought would be acceptable.

Mr. Whitley was anxious to have Mr. McAdams called upon.

Alderman Ivy wanted the matter settled once and for all. He went on to state the condition of the house at present which had been hired by a tenant, who was willing to pay $18 a month. Mr. Ivy considered that $100 properly expended would make the house equal to any in the locality in which it was proposed to put it.

After further discussion regarding the $100 provision, and after listening to Mr. McAdams' plans, a vote was taken on the question of granting Mr. McAdams' permit. There were 7 yeas, 9 nays, 3 absentees and 1 vacancy.

The report of the committee on ordinances relative to amending ordinances regarding width of streets, was the subject of a somewhat extended discussion, opened and conducted almost solely by Alderman Lyman.

After the alderman had taken some time explaining his point, Alderman Ivy rose to a point of order, saying that according to parliamentary ruling the speaker's remarks were not in order.

President White was not of this opinion, and considered Alderman Lyman in order. Alderman Ivy appealed from the decision of the chair, but this the president would not consider. Then Alderman Ivy appealed from the decision of the chair on this second point. After a vote, the first ruling of the president was sustained, and Alderman Lyman continued.

At the conclusion of the debate the report of the committee was accepted.

The finance committee's report on the expenditure of $2564.74 dog tax was laid over for another meeting.

"THAT OF A TWO AND ONE-HALF CENT ATTORNEY."

This is what Alderman Ivy was pleased to call the majority report of the special committee, charged with the consideration of the matter of laborer's salaries.

When the consideration of this matter came up for a second time Alderman Ivy moved that it be taken from the table, and referred with the original petition to a special committee of three, to be appointed by the president. Further that said committee of three should confer with the mayor, heads of the departments and the city solicitor.

Alderman Dana objected to this plan saying he saw no occasion for such action. It had been considered by a special committee, and fully presented.

Alderman Lothrop moved as an amendment to Alderman Ivy's motion that the report of the committee be accepted.

Alderman Ivy, armed with voluminous statistics, made a long plea in behalf of the laborers who desired increase. He read the list of a number of cities where the population was less and the wealth per capita less, yet the laborers received $2 per day.

He spoke rather critically of the special committee on classified labor. The principal desire of the members of this committee was to agree with the laborers.

Alderman Dana suggested at this point that the committee would have been very glad of Alderman Ivy's services, but that gentleman had declined.

Mr. Ivy continued. His remarks did not deal directly with the majority report, but he dwelt on the fact that the city could well afford the increase, and told what benefit would accrue to the laborers. Of course it would be to the best interest of the city.

Alderman Ivy said he did not care three cents whether his plan was adopted or not, though he knew it to be to the best interest of the city. If the city did not accept the best and most economical plan it did not matter to him.

Alderman Nagle suggested if he (Alderman Ivy) felt that way about it he had no right to occupy the chair of an alderman.

Continuing, Alderman Ivy said: "What is the report of the select committee? It is a two and one-half cent attorney's report or criticism of a matter which deserves great consideration and is of importance to the city."

Alderman Dana—I should like to ask the alderman what value he places on the services of the attorney who was just speaking? Which does he value higher his work or mine?

Alderman Ivy in answer said he left the matter to his clients.

Alderman Lothrop at the conclusion of Alderman Ivy's extended remarks had listened to the committee's report, and considered it the best he had ever heard. He further urged its adoption.

Alderman Bailey also hoped it would be adopted. He thought the highest compliment that could be paid to it was the irrelevant remarks which the Ward 1 alderman had found it necessary to make.

Alderman Briston wanted the matter laid over until next meeting under the charter. This the chair thought out of order as the charter provision in this direction covered only orders.

A vote was then taken and Alderman Ivy's motion was carried by a large majority sustaining the select committee's majority report.

ORDINANCES.

The following orders were adopted with discussion:

Authorizing construction of concrete sidewalks on Chestnut street, Ward 3, Church street, Ward 5, Eldridge street, Ward 7, Commonwealth avenue, Ward 6, Willard street, Ward 7, Beacon street, Ward 6, Lake avenue, Wards 5 and 6.

Authorizing construction of gravel sidewalks on Erie avenue, Ward 5, Griffin avenue, Ward 5.

IN CAMP AT GLOUCESTER.

CO. C OF NEWTON HAS PITCHED ITS TENTS ON EASTERN POINT—EIGHT DAYS COAST PATROL DUTY GIVE MEMBERS A TASTE OF MILITARY SERVICE—LEFT MONDAY MORNING, THOUGH FEW KNEW IT.

Long before the majority of Newton's citizens were thoroughly awake or had finished their breakfasts last Monday morning, Co. C, 5th regt. M. V. M., was on its way to Eastern Point, Gloucester, where it is now encamped with the third battalion on a tour of eight days patrol duty.

Those residents of the city, who were up and dressed when the command took its departure, had evidently forgotten there were any hostilities between this country and Spain, for instead of displaying the least enthusiasm, they stood rubbing their eyes, and wondering what it all meant.

"Not much like the days of '61," remarked an old veteran, who was watching intently the movements of the boys in blue.

"Why," said he, "it may not mean anything, and it may mean everything, at any rate Newton people don't know. When I was a boy," he continued, "every company that went from here was cheered time and time again, before it left the station."

If the company members felt any disappointment at the absence of their friends at the depot or the lack of any patriotic demonstration on the part of the citizens, they did not mention it. On the contrary they were in the best of spirits, and despite the inclement weather, and other disadvantages showed themselves in fine condition, and prepared to represent Newton in a manner that could not fail to reflect credit upon themselves and the Garden City.

If every Massachusetts city is able to offer to the service of the country as sound a company in strength of numbers, mind and body, and possessed of equal military knowledge and discipline, there can be no doubt but what the old Bay state will furnish a quota of which everyone of its inhabitants may feel justly proud.

After waiting three weeks, during which time everything was in perfect readiness, it was not until early last week that orders were received by Capt. Springer authorizing him to prepare to enter camp at Gloucester on the 16th.

Having made all necessary preparations there was nothing to be done but to notify the members.

Little thinking future developments of the work would prove of especial importance to them they were taken greatly by surprise last Saturday morning, when Col. Whitney issued a command from the camp at Gloucester, ordering Co. C to transport all overcoats, knapsacks, canteens, rations, ammunition, and mess-kits to South Framingham. Without any hesitation the command was promptly executed, and before six hours had passed Lieut. Daley had packed up all the company's possessions, save the uniforms, caps and rifles.

Gen'l Dalton complimented the officers of Co. C for the alacrity with which the orders were carried out, and characterized it as a first class exhibition of true military discipline.

These articles were taken for use of the 8th regiment which has been ordered to the front. The non-coms, and every private was busy at work in the morning looking over rifles, brushing uniforms, and finishing the work of packing the large camp chests in which were carried those articles generally stored in the knapsacks.

Every one was active in speech or movement, and general appearance clearly showed that something out of the ordinary was taking place. But three civilians witnessed the scene at their work, though a small crowd of boys peered through the windows, looking on in wonder and admiration.

EARLY MORNING PREPARATIONS.

It required no military call on the fire alarm bells to bring sixty members of Co. C to their posts of duty at the armory last Monday morning. Before the hands of the clock had met at 6:30, Capt. Springer, his lieutenants, the non-coms, and every private was busy at work in the morning looking over rifles, brushing uniforms, and finishing the work of packing the large camp chests in which were carried those articles generally stored in the knapsacks.

Every one was active in speech or movement, and general appearance clearly showed that something out of the ordinary was taking place. But three civilians witnessed the scene at their work, though a small crowd of boys peered through the windows, looking on in wonder and admiration.

At 7:45 o'clock when the officers felt that everything had been given due attention, and nothing had been overlooked, Sergt. Carling gave the command "fall in" and the company formed in the upper hall.

The roll was called, after which the rifles were inspected by Lieut. Daley.

At this time Capt. Springer gave his men some good advice and suggestions, which, if carried out, will prove valuable when on duty. He cautioned them to take the best care of themselves and to perform all things required of them faithfully. At the close of his remarks, the order, "forward march" was given, and the command left the building. Passing over the centre plaza bridge, it arrived at the station at 8 o'clock. Regardless of what might have been expected, there was no applause, no show of the slightest appreciation or support on the part of the few who were gathered on the platform when the company formed in line. In fact only those few whose work calls them in regularly on the 8:02 train were present, and this small representation did nothing but look from one to another in an apathetic manner, and ask questions. When the 8:02 train rolled into the station the passengers rubbed the steam off the window panes, and looked out to inquire the cause of an unusually crowded platform. No one offered to cheer, no one appeared even surprised. In fact it seemed as though even were taking their common course, and that individuals who were not affected, felt it only proper they should mind their own business.

WHAT THE BOYS ARE DOING.

The detail at Gloucester with the third battalion, takes the place of the summer muster at South Framingham. Their duties consist chiefly of coast patrol service, which means largely being "on guard" a greater part of the time. The command is encamped on private land at Eastern Point, and are hugely enjoying their experience.

With Co. F of Waltham and Co. B of Cambridge, Co. C left Boston on the Steamer Cape Ann shortly after 9 o'clock Monday morning. The first two companies are at Plum Island and Rockport respectively, while our boys hold the fort at Eastern Point. It is safe to say that these are as fully comfortable quarters as the other companies, while the amount of work and drilling is by no means less.

COMPANY GOSSIP.

If necessary, the boys can find consolation in the fact that Memorial Day will find them in Newton doing escort duty at Gen'l Matthews headquarters, in Marblehead. This fortunate squad enjoys the distinction and privilege of sleeping in a real house and guarding real military headquarters.

Corp. J. W. Forsen is happy again at the head of the gattling gun squad.

Former Privates Adams, Dow, and Bou-lette, have been honorably discharged, and have enlisted in the U. S. marines at the Charlestown Navy Yard.

The new names on the roll of privates are O. C. A. Child, G. W. Cobb, H. N. Hyde, and former 1st Sergt. Fanning.

The question has been asked: "Where, oh where are those recruits who wanted to join?" The answer is that they were not needed. Some have been unkind enough to hint that the would-be soldiers are just as well pleased.

After all, the military inspection was the cause of but two removals, the others having been mustered in again after a second inspection.

"All present and accounted for" with the exception of two privates, who are both seriously ill, at their Newton homes.

Cook Henry Stanley is just as popular as at home. He has some willing apprentices who are ready learning the art of cooking a first-class mess.

Newton people will have an opportunity to welcome the company's return next Monday afternoon.

Literary Notes.

The youngest person who has ever illustrated a magazine article is without doubt the boy whose drawings are reproduced in the June Harper's to illustrate the article entitled "The Study of a Child," by Louise E. Hogan. The author, who is interested in the development of the new science of Psychology, busied herself with collecting authentic records of spontaneous mind development. The child studied was allowed to grow up as much as possible as his own nature prompted. He learned to count and to write as nature taught him, and almost from infancy he drew things he saw with a pencil or cut them out of paper. The article is full of interest, and is, besides, an important addition to the science of bringing up children.

The announcement of the contents of the June Harper's shows a large proportion of timely subjects. "Current Fallacies upon Naval Subjects" is by Captain A. T. Mahan, U. S. N.; Professor Albert Bushnell Hart contributes an article on "Our Diplomatic Relations with Cuba"; "The Situation in China" is analyzed by "one of the most distinguished European correspondents"; and Julian Ralph contributes "The 'Czar's People'—the second of a series of articles treating Russia as a militant power in the forefront of modern political and territorial movements. A story of the Maine woods by Hamlen Sears; 'A Rebel Cipher Deciphered,' by David Homer Bates; and 'A Study of a Child,' by Louise E. Hogan, are other noteworthy features in an exceedingly valuable number.

"A Yankee in Spain" is the title of a series of articles by Poulney Bigelow, beginning in the number of Harper's Weekly dated May 14th. Mr. Bigelow made a bicycle trip through the Peninsula, in the interests of the Weekly, to ascertain the sentiment of the people of all classes in the country in regard to many subjects that all overcoats, knapsacks, canteens, rations, ammunition, and mess-kits to South Framingham. Without any hesitation the command was promptly executed, and before six hours had passed Lieut. Daley had packed up all the company's possessions, save the uniforms, caps and rifles.

Gen'l Dalton complimented the officers of Co. C for the alacrity with which the orders were carried out, and characterized it as a first class exhibition of true military discipline.

Everything at the moment is keyed to the concert pitch of war, and Harper's Bazar, recognizing the universal feeling, takes special note just now of woman's share in the work in war times. Dr. Grace N. Kimball, in the Bazar, to be issued on May 21st, will give practical details as to the equipment of nurses, and state what women may do in the way of relief to the wounded and nursing. Edith Lawrence will tell in her number about the society girls of New York and their organizations to help the soldiers. The number of the Bazar dated May 14th tells of the Patriotism of Club Women.

In justice to the 5th regiment, it may be said that the treatment it has received since there was any talk of calling upon Massachusetts militia, is scarcely what might have been expected. Though, everything considered, it is just what should be expected under present conditions.

THE GIANT DESPAIR.

One of the most horrible things about the nervous diseases to which women are peculiarly subject is the sense of overwhelming despair which they bring upon the mind. A woman's mental condition is directly and powerfully affected by any ailment of the delicate, special organs of her sex. Such a difficulty not only racks her body with pain and suffering but burdens her with mental anguish which words can hardly describe.

Thousands of women have had a similar experience to that of Mrs. Eurath A. Williams of Westport, Oldham Co., Ky. in which the use of Dr. Pierce's wonderful "Favorite Prescription," by imparting health and strength to the feminine organism, has not only restored complete vigor and capacity to work, but has also given renewed brightness and buoyancy of spirit.

"I suffered for over a year," says Mrs. Williams, "with indigestion and nervous prostration. I was unable to eat or sleep. I tried several physicians, but they only helped me for a short time. A friend advised me to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Peppies.' I commenced taking the medicines last May. Took three bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription,' three of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and three of the 'Peppies,' and am now feeling better than I have for two years. Have a good appetite, sleep well, and do not suffer from indigestion or nervousness. I have gained seven and a half pounds since taking these medicines. I have recommended Dr. Pierce's medicine to several ladies, one of whom is now taking it and is being greatly benefited."

He also told of Douglass' visit to Washington to secure permission for the enlistment of colored regiments in the civil war. He said that if necessary 1,000,000 blacks could be recruited in the present war and they would be better fitted to go to Cuba, Porto Rico and Manila than the white soldiers. All we asked was that the negroes be treated with justice.

FATAL CANOE TRIP.

EUGENE R. KNAPP, JR. OF BROOKLINE DROWNED WHILE TRYING TO SAVE HIS BETROTHED.

Eugene R. Knapp, Jr. 24 years old, of Beaconfield Terrace, Brookline, was drowned in the Charles River near Riverside yesterday afternoon, while canoeing with Miss Adams of Jamaica Plain to whom he was engaged.

The accident happened shortly after 4 o'clock, near the Riverside recreation grounds. From all accounts the canoe was upset by the wind, which came in great gusts. Mr. Knapp held Miss Adams up until help arrived, but sank while she was being taken into another canoe, which had put out to their rescue, and did not rise again.

Mr. Knapp was an expert canoeist and a good swimmer, and his friends think he must have been exhausted by his efforts to save Miss Adams. He was a very popular young man, and the sad accident has caused great sorrow among a large circle of friends. Serat. Porcell and a squad of Newton police officers, having been notified by telephone, were soon on the scene and began grappling for the body of Knapp. It was found near the Newton side of the river, about 7.30.

Miss Adams was taken to the Woodland Park hotel, completely prostrated, and her father, Chas. H. Adams, of 541 Centre street, Jamaica Plain, sent for. She could give no account of the accident, save that Mr. Knapp remarked as a heavy squall struck the canoe, "That was a strong one" and the canoe immediately overturned. Miss Adams was late in the evening taken to her home.

Mr. Knapp was a son of Eugene R. Knapp, the well known real estate dealer, and was a member of the Young Men's Republican Club, the All Saints' Parish Club and the Brookline Swimming Club.

The funeral arrangements have not yet been made, but the funeral will probably be from All Saints' Church of which he was a member.

The heroism of the young man, who made no attempt to save himself, but devoted himself to the rescue of the young lady, deserves the highest praise. His father is at present in Seattle on business.

Mr. Scheekles of the Wabawawa Club, who was in a canoe with a lady, and another gentleman, came to the scene, and when Mr. Knapp's body was found, the position was such, that it was evident that he had been seized with cramps, and could not help himself. The affair was the more sad, as the day was the anniversary of the engagement of the young people.

The Planet Vesta.

Vesta is the brightest though not the largest of the little planets or asteroids between Mars and Jupiter. Its diameter is 243 miles, rather more than the length of Massachusetts. This month it is opposite the sun and so at its brightest. This year it is at its nearest point to the sun, and the earth is now about at its farthest from the sun, so Vesta is much nearer and appears brighter to us than for several years past and to come. It is just visible to naked eye.

At 8.30 p. m. in southeast, are the two bright stars Alpha and Beta of Libra, Beta at the left and the higher. Above them is Mu of Virgo, nearly as bright, making a nearly equilateral triangle. About midway from Beta to Mu is Delta not so bright. Above Delta and left of Mu is 16 nearly as bright as Delta making another similar but smaller triangle. The planet Vesta is above Delta, and will cross the line Delta-16 just above its middle point about May 19 or 20, moving slowly toward Mu. Two or three nights observation with an opera-glass will show its motion and prove it is not a fixed star. E. G. C.

The Newton Cemetery Ponds.

A peculiar claim for damages has just been settled by the city of Newton, which involves the payment of $700 to the Newton cemetery corporation.

For a number of years one of the chief natural beauties of the cemetery has been the number of natural lakes fed by springs which are scattered through the grounds. A year ago the city began the construction of sewers through the streets bounding the cemetery, and with the completion of the under drains, which were built with the sewers, the ponds began to dry up.

During the dry part of last summer and fall the lakes were almost dry, and the indications point to a complete stoppage of the natural supply of water.

The cemetery trustees have laid the matter before the city government, setting forth that the beauty of certain portions of the property has been almost completely destroyed and the sale of lots near the pond stopped.

In order to avoid a suit the city has decided to pay the trustees the sum of $700, and in addition will keep the lakes filled with water from the city supply.

UNFURLED AT NEWTONVILLE.

"OLD GLORY" FLUNG TO THE BREEZE WHILE THE BAND PLAYED AND TWO THOUSAND PEOPLE CHEERED—PUBLIC DEMONSTRATION OF PATRIOTISM UNEQUALLED IN YEARS.

Two thousand voices cheered, as many pairs of hands applauded, the band played "The Star Spangled Banner" accompanying a chorus of children's voices, while old glory was unfurled from the flag staff in Newtonville square last Saturday afternoon.

As a public demonstration of patriotism never has an equal this occasion been witnessed in the past twenty years, excepting of course, Independence Day celebrations. On no Fourth for some time has such a crowd gathered in this part of the city.

Sidewalks on Washington and Walnut streets were almost impassable, the electric cars gave up running for half an hour, and teams found difficulty in forcing a passage through the throng of spectators.

Many among the sight-seers carried flags while others showed their patriotic feelings by wearing the national colors in the form of neckties, badges and even hat-ribbons. Vehicles were made to look attractive with similar decorations.

There was no end of enthusiasm, and the speakers were frequently interrupted by storms of applause and cheering.

A stand erected in front of the pole for the speakers was well befitting the festive occasion, with the same figures of ornate, made the lemonade booth look particularly handsome.

This latter feature contributed by the local storekeepers, seemed to be unusually popular. Here free lemonade was served to all those who would but ask for it. As can be readily imagined there were many thirsty ones.

The exercises began shortly after 4 o'clock and lasted for about 30 minutes. The streets were lined by ladies long before this time however, and all available standing room was filled within an eighth of a mile.

The opening number consisted of a selection by the High school band, after which Alderman Nagle, to whose untiring efforts the success of the affair is largely due, presented Rev. J. W. O'Brien, pastor of the Central Congregational church. Rev. Mr. Dutton offered prayer. The Mayor told of the regret that was felt by the city government members that it was found necessary to remove the staff from Newtonville square in 1896. Of course it was made imperative by the Washington street widening improvement. The city fathers were therefore much pleased to be able at this time to replace the staff, and to allow one of the citizens of Newtonville the handsome flag to fly from the top.

In the days of '61 there were two classes, the friends and the enemies of the Union. Mothers and sisters watched the departure of husbands and brothers with willing sacrifice. Misers unloosened their fingers and gave up gold to fight the cause of old glory. Today there are no divisions. All are prepared to lay down their lives for its defence, and all are prepared to make every sacrifice for this common cause.

The Mayor then gave the High school boys some excellent advice concerning the respect due the national emblem. He mentioned the boys and their devotion to the flag of the United States bore to all parts of the world.

At the close of his remarks the Mayor took the flag, and as the chorus of school children, under Mr. Walton's direction, were singing the chorus of the "Star Spangled Banner" he pulled the rope, and the flag was flung to the breeze with an unusual outburst of cheers and hand-clapping.

This followed by an address by City Solicitor Slocum. Mr. Slocum called for three cheers for the flag, and his request was no sooner uttered than it met with hearty response. When the crowd had finished Mr. Slocum spoke of his pride at being an American citizen. Continuing he spoke of the significance of the stars and stripes, and why the flag was deserving of every one's reverence.

Referring briefly to the days of '61 he spoke of the difference in public sentiment, caused by the existing conditions of then and now. He spoke of Admiral Dewey's victory, and the hope that the army and navy which they firmly believed would be successful.

At the close of Mr. Slocum's remarks called for three cheers for the army and navy, and the crowd, McKinley, Admiral Dewey and Mayor Cobb.

ABOUT THE POLE.
The pole formerly occupied a position in the centre of Newtonville square, where it was placed in 1892. For four years it remained there until it was found necessary to remove it in 1896, on account of the Washington street widening. The city fathers intended replacing it, as soon as the work was completed, and when the announcement was made that it would be in its present location, the city fathers took this opportunity to make the affair one of public celebration.

The pole is about 125 feet from the base to the top, though about 6 feet has been sunk in the ground so that it may maintain an erect position.

Bishop Perry.
In giving out notice of the death of the Bishop of Iowa, Dr. Shinn said to the congregation of Grace church, last Sunday, that it was possible some present might not be aware of the close relationship the departed Bishop once held to Grace church. He was really one of its founders.

The first Episcopal services in this vicinity were held in the parlors of his father's residence at the corner of Williams and Glen streets.

William Perry was then a student and took an active part in the new parish. Later on when the services were removed to Union Hall, where Cole's block now stands, he was ordained there to the Diaconate.

He displayed a great zeal and energy in the new movement here and in after years had the satisfaction of seeing the remarkable growth which followed the early efforts he and a few others had put forth.

The little congregation once gathered in Stephen Perry's house has grown so that today Grace church is a mother of parishes. In closing his remarks, Dr. Shinn expressed the belief that every honest effort to extend the Kingdom of Christ would meet with success, even though in some instances the laborers might not be permitted to see here the results of their labors.

He thought the case of Bishop Perry should stimulate young men to put forth good work while they are young, for the Lord's cause. It might be that some one could do now that which would be even more fruitful of results than were the efforts of the college boy who over forty years ago used to go around the streets of Newton taking up notices of the services of Grace church.

Dorothy and Marjory were out with their nurse, when they met a negro man, and Marjory said, "Oh, see! there goes a nigger."

"Why, Marjory!" exclaimed Dorothy, "you must not say 'nigger.' It's dreadful rude. You should say 'coon.'—Harpers' Bazar.

ON BEACON HILL.

TENDER CARE FOR MR. WHITNEY'S INTERESTS—NO MALDEN BRIDGE THIS YEAR—THE WEST BOSTON BRIDGE TO BE BUILT AND NEWTON WILL NOT BE TAXED—RIVER AND HARBOR IMPROVEMENTS.

Beacon Hill, May 18.
The general court continues to take things easy. As the speaker has now got the house in the habit of having sessions at 12:30 o'clock, and he would have to allow an hour for dinner if they met at 10:30, he believes that very little time is lost over the time-honored custom of forenoon sessions, while he is sure the members are not nearly as tired as they would be if they had double sessions.

The house began the week with a big debate on the gas bill, one feature of which was the opposition to the effort of several members of the committee on rules to so amend the bill providing for the dissolution of associations or combinations of persons who issue stock or securities upon the property, stock or franchises of certain domestic corporations, without the authority of law, as to make it apply to the Whitney companies. It was a peculiar sight to see the house leaders, Messrs. Myers, Parsons, Kenedick, Stone and others being met, and defeated, although they acted without regard to party lines. Mr. Rowell of Lowell made a good fight for the amendment, but it was very evident that the rest of the committee on manufactures was determined that nothing should be done which should embarrass Mr. Whitney in his effort to get cheap gas or cheap fuel, or whatever else of a cheap nature they still believed the great magnate was determined to furnish to the citizens of Massachusetts, even though he had to risk breaking the laws to do it. There are many people who believe that the legislature is too lenient with Mr. Whitney; one thing is certain and that is that it is a shame if it does not succeed in his plans.

The house has definitely refused to reconsider its vote of May 5, by which it refused to order the Malden bridge bill to a third reading. The result is that there will be no rebuilding of the bridge this year, and Newton people who go to Everett and Malden should go around the other way, or else look out while standing on the running boards of the electric. I do not suppose that the bridge is really dangerous, as long as such precautions are taken as at present, but if it is the city of Boston which is maintaining it in its present condition, is entirely liable, and may be indicted some fine day, when it will feel more like rebuilding at a safe width.

But notwithstanding the apparent belief of the house that the Middlesex cities and towns benefited should pay for a portion of the expense of widening the Malden bridge, the same body, under the skillful work of the Newton representatives and their colleagues from nearby towns resulted yesterday in the defeat of a bill proposed by the senate amendments, to which I referred last week. There was an hour's debate, and then the house refused to concur, 49 to 63. When one reflects upon the amount of labor put into this question by Mr. Myers and his Cambridge associates, this result is remarkable. Senator Dallinger, while insisting that the bill was grossly unjust to Cambridge, in order that construction may proceed, moved that the senate rescind and concur with the house. The motion prevailed, and the Middlesex towns are exempted.

The black eye which the committee on ways and means of the house and senate inflicted before the week is out, is being an anchorage basin in Green Harbor in Mansfield, a matter upon which Mr. Wales of your city spent a great deal of his time last year as clerk of the joint sessions of the legislature, and it is a pity that the commission, did not suffice to kill it, and the senate has now concurred with the house in passing it into law. The appropriation provided is $57,000.

Frank P. Bennett proposition for an investigation of the value of a boulevard from the Point of Pines to Lynn woods and thence to the Middlesex Fells, has been postponed, but is likely to be discussed in the near future. The bill which was pending at the time Mr. Bennett made his remarkable attack upon Newton, on the theory that all the money appropriated last year was to be expended in the city, and that the house had no right to spend it in any other way, is still pending. I think Mr. Bennett was unanimous in permitting the bill to be reported after that attack; but he doubtless realized that if he did not report it it would be substituted, for the house had no right to spend it in any other way, is still pending. I think Mr. Bennett was unanimous in permitting the bill to be reported after that attack; but he doubtless realized that if he did not report it it would be substituted, for the house had no right to spend it in any other way, is still pending.

A bill to authorize a state appropriation for the support of public schools, lies on the table. It is a bill which has been reported to the next general court, to which several members of the committee on education and taxation dissent. I explained this bill yesterday a year ago. It would result in a very great loss of money from Newton, as many thousands of dollars raised from taxation in that city would be used in supporting schools in Fall River, Lawrence, and other places. The theory is that it would benefit small towns, but it has never been so drawn that it would not benefit large cities more, and that is its fatal defect, outside of its unfairness. Had the bill been favorably reported Mr. Hayward would have had a chance to get it in the committee on ways and means. It will go to that committee still, if the house substitutes it, as has been the case in previous years. This seems to be a perennial bill.

Bills for the improvement of banks of rivers and ponds in the metropolitan district, and for the assessment of betterments in the park district, are in the senate calendar.

Senator Harward had another chance to defend the bill legalizing the action of the Central Vermont railroad in mortgaging its lease of the New London Northern, yesterday. The bill was engrossed, and Mr. Powers, who represented one of the parties in interest, was an absorbed listener during the debate. This is one of the most involved and vexatious matters which have come before the General Court this year. The railroad was understood to be averse to any legislation, and the bill was asked by parties who had bought bonds issued on the lease. The Central Vermont is in its attempt to put the bondholders in a receiver and the friends of the bill agreed with its opponents that the action had been illegal. Senator Harward, however, took exception to Senator Cook's allegation that the bill legalized fraud. While the latter maintained that many Massachusetts people were interested in the bill, Senator Soule of New Bedford argued that 1200 people, mostly, he assumed, from this state, were bondholders.

AFTER THE VETERANS.

REAR ADMIRAL KIMBERLY THE LATEST TO BE CALLED IN—NAVY DEPARTMENT APPOINTS HIM PRIZE COMMISSIONER AT PORTLAND.

The retired veterans of the navy are being called into active service from all sides. The latest is Rear Admiral L. A. Kimberly, who has been appointed prize commissioner at Portland.

This is in anticipation of popular captures by Com. Hewett's squadron along the New England coast.

No better man could have been selected for this duty, as this retired rear admiral bears one of the most honorable records of the entire navy. He is one of the heroes of the navy. Among other things he is the hero of that most destructive storm in the annals of naval history, the storm at Samoa on March 15, 1880, when all of the American warships that were stationed in the port at the time were wrecked. He is also one of the heroes of Mobile bay and was commander of the flagship Hartford under Farragut at that battle.

Rear Admiral Kimberly has been a resident of Newton since he has retired from active service, several years ago.

He was born in New York in 1826. He was educated in a parochial school, and having evidenced a seafaring tendency entered the navy at an early age. He later received an appointment at Annapolis, where he remained for a year, when he was placed on board the sloop of war Jamestown as cadet. Here he remained for three years, and was then promoted to the rank of lieutenant. He was then stationed on the African corvette, where he remained for a year, when he was placed on board the sloop of war Jamestown as cadet.

He was given a commission as master in 1855, and in a few months was promoted to lieutenant.

In 1856 he was ordered aboard the receiving ship Boston, where he remained until 1857, being ordered then to the German sloop doing duty in the Indian ocean.

In 1860 he was sent to the frigate Potomac in the west gulf blockading squadron. He was appointed lieutenant commander of the Hartford, the flagship of Admiral Farragut's squadron, July 16, 1862, and for the first time did duty on board a steam man-of-war.

After the battle of Mobile bay he was ordered to the frigate Colorado, flagship of the European squadron, and remained there until 1866. He became a commander on July 25 of that year. He next took charge of the receiving ship New York, where he remained until 1870. In 1872 he was made commander of the new ironclad Canonicus in the north Atlantic service.

Oct. 3, 1874, he was placed in charge of the Monitor, the flagship of the Atlantic fleet. In 1876 he was made captain of the Omaha, the flagship of the southern Pacific squadron.

He had seen 32 years' continuous sea service in 1878, when he was attached to the navy in New York, where he remained six years.

He was made a commodore Nov. 27, 1884, and was in command of the Boston navy yard until 1886. He was appointed rear admiral July 25, 1887, and was then selected to command the Pacific squadron in March, 1889, was lying at anchor in the harbor of Apia during the Samoan troubles with Germany, when the terrific storm of Oct. 3, 1889, was lost in the storm.

The British man-of-war Calliope was the only vessel that really escaped injury, because she happened to have a full head of steam up and fled from the harbor.

In 1890 Admiral Kimberly was made president of the naval board of survey, which position he held for two years until he was retired. At that time he was the senior officer of the navy.

Women's Educational Club.
The annual meeting of the West Newton Women's Educational Club was held Friday afternoon in the parlors of the Unitarian church. The president, Mrs. E. N. L. Walton, presided. The reading of the report of the last meeting was followed with a short address by Mrs. Walton. She made special mention of the loss recently sustained by the club in the death of Mrs. Eddy, and the great sorrow of Mrs. Howard caused by the death of her daughter.

Resolutions of sympathy were presented by Mrs. Emmons Paine and sent in behalf of the club to Mr. Eddy and Mrs. Howard. The various reports were submitted as follows: Sec. Amelia Davis; Treas., Miss Claffin; art class, Mrs. A. E. Baker; rent event class, Miss Amelia Davis, who also announced the program of study in literature for the next year.

The reading of reports was followed by a spirited discussion in regard to the raising the membership fee to $2.00. The club decided to postpone any action for a year. The officers for the coming year were elected as follows: Pres. Mrs. E. N. L. Walton; Vice-Pres. Mrs. Mary H. Davis; Mrs. Carrie B. Allen; Mrs. Sarah M. Davis; Mrs. Adelaide L. Gilman; Mrs. Ellen E. Pratt; Mrs. Kathleen M. Phipps; Mrs. June M. Hastings; Rec. Sec., Mrs. Anna L. Bailey; Corresponding Sec., Mrs. Crockett; Treas., Miss Harriet C. Claffin; Auditor, Miss Esther Barry; directors, term expires 1901, Mrs. F. F. Raymond, Mrs. Ernest Vostorath, Mrs. Charles W. Stacy, Mrs. Seth Ranlett; term expires 1900, Mrs. Adela B. Ware, Mrs. Freda B. Fisher, Mrs. Mary L. Bellows, Mrs. Harriet C. Barriault; term expires 1899, Mrs. Flora J. R. Stanley, Miss Amelia Davis, Mrs. Bell N. Cleveland, Mrs. Harriet C. Baker. The various committees remain the same as last year.

Several members of the club, who at the same time were members of other clubs, were requested to represent their clubs and responded as follows: The Chip in Club, Mrs. Bassett; Newtonville Women's Guild, Mrs. Hill; Auburndale Review Club, Mrs. Ware; Newton Highlands Women's Club, Mrs. Cobb. The thanks of the club were presented to the ladies who arranged the musical programs for the year, and the musicians, and also the members of the club, who had been invited to the pleasure and profit of the club meetings by interesting and instructive papers.

The meeting was then adjourned, the annual supper being omitted on account of the recent deaths.

Newton Jefferson Club.

A special meeting was held Wednesday evening, at the old Congregational church, Washington street, Newtonville, for the consideration of the Single Tax.

Mr. C. B. Filiebrown of Newton-treasurer of the Massachusetts Single Tax League, spoke upon the subject of Natural Taxation, and its effect upon production and wages. There was a good attendance of the club and the meeting was prolonged by the liveliest kind of discussion of the pros and cons of the subject.

In his summing up the speaker urged upon every member of the Jefferson Club to read, by way of educating themselves in the principles of Thomas Jefferson, Mr. Thomas G. Shearman's book Natural Taxation, the clearest fountain to which the student can go for the figuring out of the application of Henry George's principles, especially in reference to the social effects of the Single Tax.

The adoption of a natural, intelligent, and scientific system of taxation would bring about a just distribution of wealth, would give a perpetual stimulus to industry and production, would greatly increase wages, would increase the profits of capital, would give a security to property now unknown, would encourage manufactures, commerce, and agriculture, and would incidentally solve many social problems which under present conditions seem almost insoluble. It must surely be evident, without argument, that when all taxes are concentrated upon ground rents alone, and when every piece of land is estimated for assessment at the amount for which it could be rented for present use, the tax constantly increasing, in exact proportion to any increase in the rental value of the land, it would generally be impossible to hold any land out of use for the purpose of speculation.

Under such a system all land would be made useful, up to its full capacity. The possession of land would necessitate the constant employment of labor in its use and development; and all who were unable or unwilling to use land to the best advantage of the community would abandon it to those who were both willing and able.

This is only one of the many stimulants to production which are involved in reformed taxation. Think of the many other encouragements which industry would receive. Money and credit free from all taxes, would crowd into the industrial field. Factories, mills, furnaces, foundries, workshops, stores, offices, machinery, tools, instruments of production in every conceivable form, would all be free from taxes.

The farmers' barns, crops, plows, tools and implements, his horses, cattle, sheep, materials and products of every kind would be free of tax. His land could be drained, stubbed, subsoiled and improved to the highest point, without adding a dollar to his taxes.

Using the term wages as including all forms of compensation for personal labor, it should seem clear that the great increase in production which would thus be brought about must greatly increase the demand for labor, and would therefore produce a general and permanent advance in wages.

Nominal wages, expressed in terms of money, must advance, because there would be an anxious demand for labor on the part of all land owners. For without a constant supply of efficient labor, the annual tax could not be paid; and then the land would fall into the hands of those who would extract from the land for their own labor or by the labor of others, a revenue sufficient to pay the tax, with a profit.

The increased demand for labor thus arising would, in any country large enough to make a rate of its own, largely increase the general rate of wages. That this is the inevitable result, in all similar cases, has been abundantly proved by past experience. The opening of new land to labor has always tended to increase wages, and under the proposed system of taxation there would be an enormous increase in the new land thus opened to labor, and therefore a corresponding increase in the reward of labor.

The effect upon wages would be precisely that which would be produced by the discovery of a new continent of fertile and healthy land.

Social Facts that Everyone Should Know.
In these days of more or less of mutual distrust, jealousy, and friction between labor and capital, facts on so large a scale and covering so large an area as those given below should be known far and wide, in behalf of mutual acquaintance and good understanding among people of all localities, conditions and occupations.

They simply show what philanthropic capitalists are actually doing, without noise or fuss, to promote true Christian socialism by showing that we are all "members one of another."

A few questions and answers may throw a useful side light on these facts. First—What is capital? "In all labor there is profit," and capital is the accumulated profit of the labor of previous generations.

Why is so large a portion of it in the hands of comparatively few? Simply because in the present stage of human development there are so few who have the character and ability to plan and execute great enterprises and direct labor in conducting them.

How soon will capital be more uniformly distributed? Just as soon as labor acquires capacity and character to first gain it by energy and thrift, and then to use it, co-operatively or individually.

To whom does capital belong, and why? and what is the relation of capitalists to it? It all belongs to God as the maker, both of the materials, well spent labor on which produces it, and of the planning, organizing and directing talents by which that labor works efficiently.

Capitalists are stewards of God and trustees for man, of the capital committed to them, and woe be to them as to everyone else, without respect of persons, who are faithful to the trust, whether great or small, that is committed to him.

Here follows the paragraph alluded to: "Within the last five years more than $150,000,000 has been given for libraries, museums, colleges, hospitals, etc., in the United States, says the Times Saturday Review, and more than $45,000,000 was given in last year alone. Miss Julia Cooper, New York City, bequest to Cooper Union, $200,000; Adirondack Sanitarium, $200,000; and New York Infirmary, $25,000. John Watts de Peyster, Tivoli, N. Y., to Franklin and Marshall College, Lancaster, Penn., a library building, cost, $25,000. Francis E. Draper, White Plains, N. Y., bequest to General Theological Seminary of the Protestant Episcopal church, New York, for scholarships, the reversion of $40,000. Mrs. Mary Bradhurst Field, New York and Rome, Italy, bequest to St. Paul's church, Rome, $30,000. Mrs. Josiah M. Fiske, New York, gift to Barnard College for a memorial hall, $140,000. The Rev. Charles Frederick Hoffman, D. D., New York, bequest to St. Stephen's College, Annandale, N. Y., $50,000, the principal part of his large library, and his private communion service; parochial fund of the Protestant Episcopal church, four lots and the buildings thereon adjoining All Angels' church for support of the church, and to All Angels' church a remission of all debts due him from it. Mrs. John W. Minturn, New York, a hospital building and equipment for scarlet fever and diphtheria patients, $125,000. George M. Pullman, Chicago, Ill., bequest to thirteen local charitable institutions, each $10,000. He also directed his executors to set aside $1,250,000 for the founding and endowment of a Pullman Hall of a free school of manual training for the children of persons living and employed there.

Again, the Boston Daily Advertiser of May 14th contains the following: Caroline Croft, formerly Caroline Brewer of Boston, has left $100,000 to H. K. Oliver and J. C. Warren, physicians of this city, for the purpose of making investigations to ascertain some method of curing cancer, consumption and other diseases which are now regarded as incurable.

Under her will she also gives the trustees of the Museum of Fine Arts the sum of $100,000.

Once more, in the vast field of education which is so much prized by all Americans, without distinction, official statistics show that the gifts to colleges and universities in the five years 1891-1895 inclusive were more than $34,000,000; and, in 1895, to private academies, nearly $500,000; to colleges for women, $625,000; over $530,000 for schools for colored people, besides princely sums for the admirable work of various industrial and manual training, definite statistics of which are not now at hand.

The many noble examples of which the above are only a few specimens are, and of right ought to be, highly animating to others and gratifying and encouraging to every patriot from the humblest position to the highest.

LINCOLN WATER

Kidney Troubles, Diabetes and Severe Constipation Cured.

Feb. 10, 1898.
The Lincoln Spring Co., Saratoga, N. Y.:
Gentlemen—For the benefit of those afflicted as I was I wish to add my testimony to the efficacy of the Saratoga Lincoln Spring Water. For four years I was afflicted with Kidney troubles, diabetes and severe constipation. This condition affected my nerves, gave me great distress in my head, and I was unable to sleep. I tried various remedies, and employed many skillful physicians, but they failed to relieve me.
About two months ago friends induced me to try the Saratoga Lincoln Spring Water. I used it freely, drinking nothing else and leaving off all other medicine. After a few days' use of the water I was relieved of insomnia and the distress in my head was gone. The laxative effect of the water cured my constipation, and the sugar in my urine gradually diminished in quantity, until today I am free from my old troubles, and life seems brighter. All praise to the Lincoln Spring Water.
JOHN J. SEAMEN,
52 Walker St., New York City.

At the same time Prof. Cummings left no one in doubt as to his sympathy with all that makes for social welfare.

—The Winthrop Visitor of last week has a column description of Mr. E. H. Hames' new house at Cottage Park, which is one of the most attractive in Winthrop. It has been carefully planned and the interior finish is of hard wood, selected with especial reference to its beautiful veining. A broad piazza surrounds the house on three sides, and there is also an upper balcony giving a fine view of the sea. The first two stories have four rooms each with spacious halls, and all the modern improvements marched from the depot to the armory on Washington street where they were dismissed and left for their homes. They pre-uniform with their faces bronzed and tanned by the sun and wind. The men are delighted over the trip and declare that it camp goes a long way ahead of Framingham in every respect. The company were enraptured on a bluff within two hundred yards of the beach where there was a fine view of the harbor to the east and where they received the benefit of the salt breezes.

Despite the inclement weather which signaled their departure, the warm sunny days following were amply recompens-ing. The men were given a thorough test of their knowledge of coast and guard duty with frequent drills, and every detail of the

—The Mass. Federation of Women's Clubs will meet at Amesbury, Tuesday, June 7. It is hoped that a large number will attend. The Guild will consider that day for their annual outing. The yellow tickets will be given out without charge. Miss H. A. Robinson, cor. sec., 200 Walnut street.

—Miss Antonia Vallejo, a descendant of an old and distinguished Spanish family, visited Newton this week, and was entertained by Mrs. George H. Shapley, a guest of the "Play-goers Club" on Tuesday, Miss Vallejo won deserved praise as a musician, her solo numbers adding much to the pleasure of the meeting.
—While C. H. Carter of Mt. Vernon street, West Newton, was riding a bicycle on Washington street near Crafts street about 6 o'clock last Saturday evening he came into collision with a carriage driven by David Nagle. Mr. Carter was thrown from his machine, and his arm badly injured. He was removed to his home in a hack.
—Methodist Episcopal church, Sunday evening at 7.30, there will be a patriotic service in commemoration of Memorial Day. The pastor, Rev. Franklin Hamilton, will deliver a patriotic address adapted to the occasion. Mr. Bertel G. Willard, the well-known and popular bass soloist of the Temple Quartet of Boston, will take part in the service, and sing appropriate patriotic songs. Following the marriage service Mr. and Mrs. Sheppard received in the prettily decorated parlors, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Denison, and Mr. and Mrs. S. A. D. Sheppard. The ushers were Mr. Wm. K. Denison of this place, Mr. Frank S. Pierce of Salem, Mr. Harwood A. Sheppard and Mr. Kenneth M. Blake of Newton. Following the

—The Junior Theatrical company will present their second series of entertainments on Monday and Tuesday evenings at the residence of Mr. Frank Withersell, Walnut street. The company is made up of small boys, who though young in years, are not lacking in dramatic ability. The program of amusement which they are to give, has been carefully selected, and cannot fail to win the approval of the audience. The proceeds go towards the support of the children's ward at the Newton Hospital. Tickets 10 cents. Curtain at 7.30 o'clock.

—One of the many recently erected flag poles is in front of the residence of Mr. W. H. French, Henshaw court. The pole stands about 32 feet above the ground topped with a five inch gilt ball. The flag unfurled from this pole is said to be one of the handsomest in Newtonville.

Among the guests were many of the well known society people from Boston and the Newtons. The house was handsomely decorated with potted plants and cut flowers. A dainty collation was served in the dining rooms. Several of the young ladies presided at the coffee and chocolate urns.
—Newton undoubtedly has a firebug. Two disastrous incendiary fires Wednesday night have stirred the community up to such a pitch of excitement that nothing will suffice but the immediate arrest of the guilty parties. The police have already begun an investigation, but are totally in the dark, both as to the means employed to start the fires, and the motive for starting them. They are of the opinion, however, that both were set by the same person, inasmuch as they occurred in the same immediate neighborhood.
—The local branch of the W. C. T. U. held a public meeting Tuesday afternoon at the Baptist church, Newton. Samuel Langley presided. The exercises opened with the 23d Psalm, "The Lord is my Shepherd" repeated in unison. Prayer was offered by the president, Mrs. Richard Rowe. Mrs. E. A. L. Newton was introduced and gave Whittier's pleasing poem "The Rabbi" followed by a "Eulogy on Water" by John B. Gough. Mrs. A. F. Rolfe of Concord, county superintendent of the W. C. T. U., was introduced and gave an interesting and instructive address on department work of the W. C. T. U. She especially emphasized the importance of the mothers' department, the health and heredity department, the franchise department and the Sunday school department, and the necessity of purity in all. Mrs. Rowe followed with a short sketch of the good work done during the past year by the flower mission to the Newton hospital. Mrs. Morris Beardsley rendered two appropriate selections in an acceptable manner. Little Miss Henderson gave the following recitations in a pleasing manner, "The One Horse Shay" and "Eulogy to the Flag." The business session closed, with the singing of our national air "America." A pleasant social hour followed and light refreshments were served.
—A meeting in favor of the extension of suffrage to women was held Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. T. E. Sutson, Fountain street. Mrs. E. N. L. Walton presided and made a brief address, after which Mrs. Esther Boland was introduced. Her subject was "Suffrage as it would affect the home." She said that it would be for the advancement of the home to have those interested in the establishment and execution of laws which nearly affect the home. It would take but little time for women to see that good officers were elected, and as a class they would be more careful than men about the men elected. There would be few women who would care to hold offices, and no woman would accept an office that would be detrimental to the home. Women who have small children do not care for public life, but there are many women whose children are grown up, and unmarried women who are well qualified to fill any position. At the close of Mrs. Boland's address Mrs. Sargent was requested to give some of the objections she had heard against woman suffrage. Mr. H. B. Blackwell made an eloquent plea for woman suffrage, and also answered the objections which had been given. Mr. Blackwell said that the ignorant vote would not be increased as the reformers against suffrage say. Where the experiment has been tried it has been proved that the intelligent women have voted and that the ignorant, Mrs. Helen A. Shaw of Boston was introduced and made an interesting address on the progress made in Boston. Mr. T. Allen emphasized the necessity of sending to the legislature men who are interested in, and friendly to the cause. The meeting was adjourned after a vote of thanks was made to the speakers.

—There was no meeting of the board of health last evening on account of the absence of two members. At first it was expected that the recent order adopted by the board of health relative to the quarantining of contagious cases would call out a number of physicians from all parts of the city to protest against the provisions of this new edict.

The signal system has been replaced with new apparatus, and Wednesday night for the first time in three weeks the boxes were in use.
—The regular meeting of John Eliot Lodge, A. O. U. W., was held in Odd Fellows hall, Wednesday evening. Officers from the Grand Lodge and a delegation from Waltham Lodge were present, and speeches were made by several of the visiting grand officers. A pleasing entertainment was then presented by the degree team, who also exemplified the floor work. The national colors were presented by the same team. A collation was served at nine o'clock followed by a smoke talk. Short addresses were given by Waltham brothers after which they adjourned, voting the meeting one of the best of the season.
—A well attended Mother's meeting was held at the Baptist vestry Wednesday afternoon under the direction of Mrs. H. K. Burston. The exercises opened with the reading of greeting to Mrs. Bacon and Mrs. Burbour, who recently returned from the south. An interesting paper was read by Mrs. Leland of Newton Lower Falls on "The Relations Between Mother and Child." Pleasing recitations were given by Miss May Colligan. Mrs. Bacon gave an interesting account of Mother's meetings she attended among the colored people at the south. ## BUFFALO BILL.

HIS FAMOUS WILD WEST EXHIBITION COMING SOON—CHEAP EXCURSION RATES ON ALL RAILROADS.

Lieutenant General John M. Schofield, retired and recalled from private life to act as military advisor to President McKinley during the war with Spain, said recently: "Whether this war be brief or prolonged, duration it has done one thing of incalculable value to the country, and that is, it has aroused the patriotism of the people which has too long dormant in times of peace. In fact, almost the only institution to excite the military spirit in the youth of the land has been a show—Buffalo Bill's Wild West—and in that respect our country's exhibition is a real institution, rather than a show."

Was ever another such compliment paid to any sort of an amusement exhibition? When its character is understood, Gen. Schofield's compliment is justified. It is distinctly an international military tournament of real soldiers from the cavalry and artillery of England, Germany, Russia, Cuba and the United States. A superb military spectacle, Gorman's Last Battle produced with splendid special scenery and hundreds of soldiers and savages in mimic combat as realistic as the real, is still another thing that will excite in everyone the desire to see the greatest of all exhibitions when it appears at Boston week of May 30.

Norumbega Park.

This now famous resort will be open to the public Decoration Day, Monday, May 30. The entire park has been thoroughly overhauled, new walks have been laid out combining comfort in grades and delightful shade approaches to all important points will be noted by an abundance of signs enabling the pleasure seeker to reach quickly the object of his search. A new Zoo containing a large number of rare animals has been added. A new theatre seating 4000 people has been built, and in fact all that art and money could suggest has been brought to bear to make this beautiful resort a perfect paradise. The electric fountain will send forth its prismatic hues, as of yore, and the children will be delighted with the many beautiful rambles and plenty of swings for all the fun they wish. Two full military bands will furnish music for the opening. The attraction for the stage will be Gorman's Vaudeville stars. There will be performances afternoon and evening during the entire week, at 3.30 and 8.15 respectively.

Diabetes.

Lincoln Spring Water

FROM SARATOGA.

CURES DIABETES.

Read some of the testimonials of residents of Boston and suburbs like the following, which is only one of the many we are receiving continually from people in this vicinity:

STONEHAM, Mass., Jan. 26, 1898.

Lincoln Spring Co.,

47 Cornhill, Boston.

Gentlemen:—About the first of August, 1897, I met my friend Mr. Alex. Cutting of Winchester (an old acquaintance), and invited him to have a glass of the Saratoga Lincoln Spring Water, at my parlors, 47 Cornhill. I had drank of the water frequently, only because it was delicious and exhilarating. On my return from vacation I was informed that Mr. Cutting had called at my office, (room 441, Exchange building), and knowing I had been troubled with diabetes, urged my daughter not to fail to have me order a case of the water, as he had been cured of that terrible disease by its liberal use. From such testimony I was induced to order a supply, and after drinking the water freely for a time noticed a perceptible change for the better. After drinking about four cases of the water, I was examined for life insurance by the company's physician and physically pronounced a good risk. The principal sign of diabetes (viz., sugar in the urine) was entirely eliminated; therefore, not a trace could be found by the most careful test. Previous to using the water I had a tired feeling and my limbs ached from walking, but now I can take much longer walks with very little fatigue. I must say that I am pleased with the beneficial effects of the water, and have been delighted in recommending it to friends who were in any way afflicted with the symptoms of diabetes or loss of energy and vitality. I am very thankful that I saw your sign on Cornhill, and was attracted to it from the fact that I had been in Saratoga and drank from her springs. I found the Lincoln water sparkling, bright and a delicious beverage, and thus have been led to know of its health-giving properties. Very respectfully yours,

HENRY A. SMITH.

Newton 2 Newtowne 1.

Newton Club A. backed Ed Dowd up without an error against Newtowne club at Newton Centre Saturday afternoon, and, by taking advantage of Vincent's errors in the fourth inning and of Walter Clarkson's failure to cover the plate after Pote's catch of a hard foul, scored a brace of runs, which were enough to land the victory.

It was a hard game from start to finish, runs being made in only two innings, and in the majority of the others both teams going out one, two, three.

Only three hits were made off Dowd, and five on Walter Clarkson. Both were finely supported behind the bat, too, but in the field Newton was lucky in having all of the Cambridge teams hardest drives go straight to some fielder, no less than five line hits being pulled in within the limits of the diamond.

In the fourth inning Mason led off for Newton with a hit to center and stole second, going to third when Vincent made a poor attempt to take Goodrich's liner to right. Then Goodrich got out at second, but Mason scored when Vincent dropped Hubbard's fly and the latter went to third on the following wild throw to second.

With Hubbard on third Bowen popped up a foul which Pote got under, Hubbard dashing in from third on the play, and no one covered the plate.

For Newtowne Clarkson opened the third with a double, but was left. In the seventh, with one out, Brown took first on balls, went to third on a steal and a passed ball.

Pote struck out, but Vincent saved a shutout by dropping a single between Bowen and Cummings.

The feature of the game was a double play, in which Dowd held a redhot liner from Saul's bat, and then nailed Clarkson at second. The score:

Victory.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS

TREMONT THEATRE.—The much written about new local review, "Around the Town," will receive its initial production at the Tremont Theatre. Sat. day evening, and will be continued for a run, with a special matinee Decoration Day afternoon.

The personnel of this company differs materially from those made up for late season productions. The management has been wise enough to secure players whose names in themselves give the attraction prestige.

The principal parts in this new review are played by John E. Henshaw, Richards and Canfield. Boston favorites, Sol. Aiken, Dick Bernard, Catherine Linyard of the New York Casino Company, May Ten Broeck, Kitty Mitchell and Mabel Dixey.

"Around the Town" is a travesty and burlesque on men and things in Boston of today, contrasted with the Boston of 200 years ago. The fanciful story is copiously interlarded with skits, songs, dances, choruses, ballets, military and patriotic specialties and a myriad of light features.

The company will be beautifully costumed in gowns of brilliant colors and novel designs. The scenery comprises seven massive sets, which will make a feature of the performance.

Lasell Notes.

Dr. A. A. Wright of Abundant will lecture at Lasell Seminary on Monday evening, May 30, at 7.30 o'clock. Subject, "How Wide is an Inch." Friends are welcome.

—On Saturday afternoon the grounds of Lasell presented a particularly gay and animated appearance. Everywhere were visible the red, blue and yellow of the military companies, A. B. and C., forming the "Lasell Battalion," the trees on that part of the lawn serving for drill ground were wound in bunting or bore huge A's, B's or C's, which could also be seen displayed at the windows overlooking the lawn, or upon the side of the house, where too many were gay colored bunting. Dominating all this decoration, the national flag was seen in all directions. A temporary platform erected on the sloping side of the hill was covered with students and their guests, and sitting in scattered groups here and there were others, all intent upon watching the military companies. Captains Hollings, Joslin and Whitney of the Newton High School Battalion acted as judges, an office by no means easy of performance, for the orders were executed with promptness, ease and precision by these alert young women. The prizes for best work went as follows:

For company drill, the banner was awarded to Company A, Capt. Elsie Scott; in sword squad, Capt. Goll received the palm, and Lieut. Houghton second prize; for individual excellence, Sergt. Edith Moulton of the senior squad, first prize, and Sergt. Gertrude Watson, honorable mention; junior squad, Private Mary Houghton first, and Private Caroline Thomson second, while Private Jessie McCarthy received honorable mention. The prizes were, senior, oxidized silver badge bearing monogram, L. S., and suspended from a sword; junior, silver maltese cross with similar monogram suspended from a rifle. The Newton High School Band was in attendance. The sword drill and bayonet practice proved the most interesting feature of the exhibition, and were really done finely. The excellent physical training secured by this military practice was gratifyingly apparent in the erect carriage, free motions and easy bearing of these girls. Capt. Emma H. Goll won the sword squad prize.

The Missionary Society was addressed on Sunday morning by Miss Lida Peck who is connected with the Boston College settlement work in Hull street. Miss Peck, who is an old Lasell pupil, presented a general survey of the work of the settlement, and did much to interest the girls still more in this noble philanthropic work. In the afternoon the members gathered in the parlor for the opening of the mite boxes; the receiving of the results of "self-denial week," just past; an explanation of the various sorts of work done by the society, and the deciding upon the question of how to dispose of the surplus. The contributions came in handsomely, the various gifts to which the society is pledged provided for, and the surplus divided between the Hull street settlement, and Clafin University, south. These girls are doing good work.

On Monday evening Mrs. Martin, of the department of oratory at the seminary, gave a very pleasant dramatic and musical entertainment in the gymnasium. She was assisted by Mr. Stephen Townsend. The room was full and the audience delighted.

The next entertainment of the week was a remarkably good concert given by the Lasell Instrumental Club, under the direction of Prof. Jos. A. Hills, instructor in piano, and assisted by Mr. S. E. Goldstein, teacher of violin, Masters Herman and Jerome. Prof. Hills, Mr. Hill, The Lasell pupils in violin and in organ music are making great progress in their studies under the instruction respectively of Mr. Goldstein and Mr. Dunham, and the quality of the work of the Club is a whole of very noticeable excellence.

The program of the exercises of Commencement Week at Lasell is as follows: Wednesday, June 1, S. D. Society Banquet; Thursday, June 2, 7.45 p. m., Commencement Concert (admission 50 cents); Friday, June 3, Lasell Club Banquet; Sunday, June 5, 10.45 a. m., Sermon Before the Graduating Class, Rev. A. ## Literary Notes.

Messrs. D. Appleton and Company's May announcements include "The Terror," a romance of the French Revolution, by Felix Gras, author of "The Reds of the Midi," translated by the Mrs. Catharine A. Janney; "The Art of Fawcett," by John Rowley, Chief of the Department of Taxidermy at the American Museum of Natural History; "Outlines of the Earth's History," by Prof. N. S. Shaler; "Familiar Life in Fawcett," by F. Schuchman; "Mathews; 'Political Crime,' by Louis Proal, with an introduction by Prof. F. H. Giddings; "Kronstadt," a romance, by Max Pemberton, illustrated; "Lucky Bargee," a novel, by Hagar Land; "Arachne," an Egyptian romance, by Dr. George Ebers; "News from the Birds," by L. S. Keyser; "On the Farm," by F. W. Parker, and Nellie L. Helm, and "Harold's Rambles," by J. W. Troeger, three new volumes in Appleton's Home-Reading Series; "Torn Sails," a Welsh story, by Allen Raine; "Materfamilias," by Ada Cambridge; "A History of the United States Navy from 1775 to 1898," by Edgar Stanton Maclean, A. M., with technical revision by Lieutenant Roy C. Smith, U. S. N., new edition, revised and enlarged, with new chapters and several new illustrations.

The reception given to Mr. J. A. Altscheler's romance, "A Soldier of Manhattan," in England, illustrates the interesting change of English sentiment as to American affairs which has been evident of late. Although Mr. Altscheler's story depicts the injustice of the English toward the American colonies long before the Revolution, many of the English papers accept his implied strictures as probably correct, and their comments are significantly friendly. The departure from the insular point of view shown in the reviews of this story, which is published by D. Appleton and Company, certainly warrants a feeling of confidence in the predictions of a better and closer understanding between the countries.

Mr. Max Pemberton's "Kronstadt" is described as a stirring romance of military life, love, and adventure. The heroine, an English girl, is detected in an attempt to obtain plans of the Kronstadt fortifications, and her escape and subsequent adventures form thrilling chapters in a novel which is accounted to be Mr. Pemberton's best work. The story will be published immediately, with illustrations, by D. Appleton and Company.

Sons of great men all remind us,
We may make our lives sublime,

We can get there every time.

THE DECAY OF STONE.

Even the Most Densely Compacted Siliceous Rocks Succumb to Time.

Whoever expects to find a stone that will stand from century to century, deriding alike the frigid rains and scorching solar rays, without need of repairment will indeed search for "the philosopher's stone." There is scarcely a substance which, after having been exposed to the action of the atmosphere for a considerable time, does not exhibit proofs of "weathering." It may even be observed on the most densely compacted siliceous rocks. The fullest extent of this inquiry can only be to elucidate relative duration and comparative labor of appropriation to useful or ornamental purposes.

By examining the various productions of nature we find evident proofs of her industry in all ages. Changes have been going on from the remotest antiquity to the present time on every substance that comes within our observation. All the actual combinations of matter have had a former existence in some other state. Nothing exists in nature but what is likely to change its condition and manner of being. No material is so durable as always to retain its present appearance, for the most solid and compact bodies have not such a degree of impenetrability and so close a union of the parts which compose them as to be exempted from ultimate dissolution.

Even in the great globe which we inhabit nothing is more evident to geologists than a perpetual series of alterations. There can be discovered no vestige of a beginning, no prospect of an end. In some bodies these changes are not so frequent and remarkable as in others, though equally certain at a more distant period. The venerable remains of Egyptian splendor, many of them executed in the hardest granite between 3,000 and 4,000 years since, exhibit large portions of exfoliation and gradual decay, thereby following the primitive, immutable and universal order of causes and effects—namely, that all objects possess the materials of which they are composed only for a limited time, during which some powerful agent effects their decomposition and sets the elementary particles at liberty again to form other equally perfect combinations. Thus by divine and unerring laws order is restored amidst apparent confusion.—Architect.

A GLINT OF COLOR.

And the Only One Seen on a Trip by Rail Through a Winter Fog.

It was a damp day. The earth was saturated with water from the melting snows, and the air was thick with fog arising from it. Outside of the cities, with their paved streets, the roads were wet and muddy, the trees dripped moisture, the men wore rubber boots, the horses rubber blankets. There was dampness everywhere, and everything was made of a dull and uniform color by the enshrouding fog. The train tore along through the universal dampness on time, itself dripping, and its passengers looking out upon the gray landscape through the film covered windows. Seen close at hand, some things were resolved out of the general gray into colors of their own, the railroad stations and the things seen about them. But these things were all black and slates and grays, and when a few stations had been seen it was realized that they were all alike in their way, all pitched in a low brown tone, all, like the succeeding miles of country, overcome by the general dampness.

And so a glint of color that at one spot appeared was all the more striking. It was seen at one of the stations at which the train stopped. The building and everything about it, the men and the baggage and the platform and the road beyond were dull and somber, but through all this came a human wearing a black sleeveless coat of brilliant purple. He came down a platform past the end of the station toward the platform at the front, with his hands in his pockets and the sides of his purple tunic caught up over them. Walking slowly, himself as much apart from all his surroundings as his coat was different in hue, like a slow moving meteor in a cloudy sky, the one touch of color seen in all the trip.—New York Sun.
